Coreans Attack the Japanese Minister's Party.

Russia Getting Mixed Up in the Muss—She Seizes the Island of Getsubito.

San Francisco, Aug. 10.—The Pacific mail steamer, City of Pekin, arrived early this morning, fifteen days from Yokohama, bringing advices up to July 24. The Japanese papers give a large number of conflicting dispatches from Corea, but there is little news which has not been anticipated by the cable. Most of the information is from Japanese correspondents, who send improbable stories.

According to the dispatch, as brought by the Tokio Maru, which left Vladivstock on July 12, a portion of the army were preparing for Corea, while at the port there were seven men-of-war and one transport. Rumors are current among the foreigners there that Japan and China have already commenced hostilities, though the Japanese discredit them. The Russians are said to be advocating an alliance with Japan. At Gensan there are neither Japanese nor Chinese troops and none of the Chinese residents are making preparations to leave. Though there has been a great catch of beche-de-mer, there is no dealing whatever.

Japan Papers publish a telegram from Seoul, dated July 27, stating that the Japanese minister urged the Corean government to drive the Chinese soldiers from Asan by force, if it really wished to demonstrate that it was an independent state. If Corea does not drive the Chinese from its borders then it has deceived Japan in declaring itself an independent state. The Japanese minister pressed the peninsular government to abrogate the existing treaties between China and Corea. Everything is now in a very critical condition. The father of the present soverign is likely to accede to a power again. A meeting of the Corean cabinet was held in the presence of the king and passed a resolution applying for the assistance of China. The following three proposals were made by the Japanese minister to the Corean government: To accept the advice of China; to abandon the dispatch of an ambassador to China annually and to drive the Chinese soldiers from Asan. Subsequently, under date of July 22, the Japanese minister in Seoul sent the following telegram to his government.

"The Corean government has refused to accept the proposals of the Japanese government, and it does not appear likely that it will reconsider the matter. It is unavoidably necessary to make fresh resolutions and thorough preparations have now been made." The Coreans requested the Japanese minister to withdraw the Japanese troops from the country and also the proposals made by the Japanese government to the Corean government on the ground that if Corea adopts Japan's proposals other powers will dispatch forces to the kingdom and make similar demands, thereby embarrassing as well as forcing the Corean government to do their bidding. Corea will make the various internal reforms only after the departure of the Japanese troops from Corea, who is undoubtedly instigated by China in this course.

The Japan Gazette of July 24 gives the following details of the skirmish near the palace at Seoul: Yesterday morning there was a skirmish between Japanese and Corean troops outside the royal palace at 8 a. m., and the Corean troops offering resistance, there was a fight for twenty minutes, after which the Coreans were dispersed and fifty of their arms fell into the Japan troops' hands. Another account says: To Mr. Otari's second demand the Corean government returned an insolent reply, and the castles showed signs of great disturbance. The minister placed himself under escort of Japanese troops and was going to the royal palace, when the Corean troops fired at him. The Japanese troops responded and the fight was over in twenty minutes and the minister went to the palace.

Still another version is as follows. The Corean government, having given a most insolent reply to the minister's second demand, the minister saw the futility of any longer negotiating with the Corean officials and intended to go this morning to the palace and communicate directly with the king. Before this the king resolved to call to his aid his father-in-law, Tai-In Kun, and seek his counsel on the present lamentable condition of the country. On this being communicated to the king's father the latter hesitated, as he feared that the Bin family would, on hearing of this, prevent him by violence from going to the palace. The king was at length obliged to ask the Japanese minister for an escort of Japanese troops when Tai-In-Kun should come to the palace. Mr. Otori sent an escort to Tai-In-Kun, and at 8 o'clock Corean troops, under the Bin family's instructions, fired on the Japanese troops, who returned the fire. The fight ceased in about twenty minutes. Tai-In-Kun went back to the castle in safety with Mr Oteri. They had an audience with the king, who backed the minister in connection with his demands and assured him that he had no intention of rejecting them. Tai-In Kun was appointed the head of the government. He will remain at present in the palace. The Bin family, which is at the bottom of the present trouble through its selfish ambition, will lose its power, as Tai-In-Kun is known to be its enemy.

A Portuguese stopping at Kobe has been found to be a spy for the Chinese government and also negotiating for the purchase of coal. From Shanghai it is learned that the Kiang Lang powder mills are at work night and day. It is stated that they are turning out over 1,000 pounds of the explosive daily and the government is urging them to make as much as possible as war is expected. A Vladivstock telegram announces that preparations are being made for the dispatch to Corea of three regiments of infantry and a corps of engineers and seven war ships from Vladivstock, but it is not known whether they are for the protection of Russians in Corea.

At the meeting of foreign ministers on July 16, at Jinsen, the proposal to make Jinsen neutral in case of war was rejected. The Chinese resident, Yuen Sie Kai, was excluded from this meeting, as in the foreign ministers' opinion he had not the qualifications of an accredited minister.

The Kokumin correspondent comes to the following conclusion on the feelings of Coreans: The majority of the Coreans are satisfied with being independent of China. The Coreans believe that Japan and Corea cannot act in conjunction, but deny that Japan is friendly to Corea. They prefer being half or wholly dependent on another nation to being independent. The Takakuto are powerful enough to crush the central government unless the latter is assisted by foreign troops.

A Seoul telegram announces that a Russian flag is to be seen on the island of Getsubito. It is surmised that Russia has seized it. The queen of Corea, in concert with her relations, the Bin family, has appealed to the Russian minister for Russian protection in case of emergency and the minister has consented.

The Kokumin Shill Bun gives an elaborate argument to show that now is the best time for Japan to begin hostilities with China. The surplus revenue in the keeping of the treasury amounts to almost nine million yen, to which must be added another sum of five million yen accruing in the twenty-seventh fiscal year from the surplus for various expenditures. There is not any pressing urgency for the local disbursement of these sums; they may be utilized as a war fund, the two together representing fourteen million yen, all of which the government can employ by issuing a word of command. This however, would be sufficient to defray the army expenses for a short time only, so when the war actually begins some measure must be instituted by which the necessary outlay can be raised. According to the Kokumin the plan is to increase the note issuing power of the bank of Japan which it says may be increased from 85,000,000 to 120,000,000 yen without in the least affecting the national currency. With regard to the settlement of financial obligations incident to the war, says the Kokumin, it will be time enough to talk about that when Japan dictates terms of peace to her enemy.

The daily papers of Tokio are coming so frequently under the ban of suspension by the government, for the publication of Corean items, terrorist paragraphs, and the indulgence, real or imaginary, of official secrets that these journals have been obliged to arrange for an interchange of subscription lists during the alternate periods of the suppression of their publication.

A substantial improvement is to be noticed in the plague returns of Hong Kong. The coolies are flocking back to the place again, but trade will require a long time ere it revives. A strong shock of earthquake lasting three minutes and a half was experienced in Yokohama on the evening of the 23d inst. No damage was done.

CORN DID IT.

Booge, Frazer & Co. Make an Assignment.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—The board of trade firm of Booge, Frazer & Co., assigned today. The fluctuation of the corn market and the failure of the Hawkeye commission house, of Omaha, is believed to have caused the failure. Booge and Frazer were officers and heavy stockholders of the Hawkeye company.

TWELVE KILLED.

Frightful Railroad Wreck in Nebraska.

A Passenger Train Goes Through a Trestle

And Carries Its Passengers Down to Death.

Trainwreckers Responsible for the Appalling Disaster—The Train Burns Up.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 10.—A fearful wreck, involving the loss of twelve or more lives, occurred on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad where it crosses on a high trestle the tracks of the union Pacific and Burlington and Missouri River roads at 10 o'clock last night. All the indications point to train wreckers as the cause.

Train No. 8 is an accommodation called "Fort Worth accommodation" and is due to arrive here at 9.40 p. m. Last night it was about ten minutes late and was making up time when it struck the trestle that crosses Salt creek, about four miles from the city, and twenty-two miles from the penitentiary. When it struck the trestle the rails immediately spread and the engine, drawing two cars after it, went thumping along over the crossties for about fifty feet, and then with a crash it fell forty feet to the bed of the creek below.

The engine burst and glowing coals spreading ignited the wooden supports of the trestle and in a few moments the bridge, dry as tinder from its long exposure to the sun, was one mass of flames. The coals falling upon the coaches lying in the ditches, set them afire and five minutes after the first warning the entire mass of cars with their load of human freight below was a mass of flames.

It was an awful sight. The flames mounted high in the heavens, colored the entire southern sky a brilliant red and from below shrieks of agony and pain were heard to issue. Willing hands were there to help but little could be done.

The engine had fallen first, then the combination car or smoker and express coach fell, partially upon that and the rear coach falling behind it telescoped that car, thus pinioning those unfortunates who were in the smoker, so that it was impossible to save them or for them to escape.

Harry Foote, the brakeman who did such efficient work at the wreck, says he is positive that there were at least ten men in the smoker, six of whom he can describe. In addition to the crew he mentions a man whose name he does not know, employed by an elevator builder named Counselman, at Naraka, Kas. There were also several passengers who got on at Jansen and two who got on at Pawnee City. Foote says that when he took out Fred Scott, the baggagemaster, who was crying for help, he heard a groan from the smoker and again another when the flames reached it, but that was all. Probably all were mercifully crushed to death, for the car was smashed almost perfectly flat. One man was found lying outside the smoker. He was probably on the platform when the train went over. He was seriously but not fatally injured and is now at the Opelt house.

The passengers rescued from the chair car were paralyzed with fright and could only lie on the bank and moan, rendering no assistance to the work of the rescuers. One family of Russians, consisting of a man, wife and child, was so completely panic stricken that, like horses in a fire, they could not be induced to leave the car and they were burned. The wrecking crew so far has discovered only the few blackened bones and fragments of burned flesh. O. S. Bell, the Lincoln traveling man, was not killed, as at first reported, but terribly injured internally. He was taken to his home on North Sixteenth street.

Among the thirteen passengers in the chair car were Mrs. Fritz and sister-in-law, who were badly shaken and bruised. J. E. Puitz a Lincoln traveling man, had three ribs broken and is a mass of cuts, but it is thought he will recover. J. R. Brinker, a Denver traveling man, was supposed to have been killed but he turned up this morning, having missed the train at Beatrice. Col. C. S. Bills, treasurer of the National Guard association of the United States, was one of the fortunate passengers and his story is as follows:

"Jay McDowell and myself were seated in the middle of the car. As we discovered that the train was likely to go over the trestle McDowell started down the aisle. I called to him to sit down and the next instant the crash came. The engine went overboard first and the smoker on top of that and the second coach in which we were seated jammed down upon the other. The car was crowded with passengers who were forced upon the backs of seats in front of us, and all but McDowell and myself were horribly mangled. As soon as possible we climbed a window and in fifteen minutes succeeded in extricating nine persons who were jammed in the debris. Hearing the shrieks and cries for help on all sides I left McDowell and ran three miles across the country to the penitentiary without making a stop. I had Warden Beemer telephone the police department and they responded promptly and nobly with the patrol wagon, carriages and physicians."

It is believed that the total number of deaths will reach twelve. Those known to have been killed are as follows: C. D. Stannard, conductor, Council Bluffs, burned to death, William Craig, fireman, Fairbury, Neb., burned under engine; Isaac Depew, Council Bluffs, instantly killed; W. O. Hamble, Fairbury, Neb., attorney, burned to death; O. S. Bell, Lincoln, Neb., traveling man, crushed to death; Mr. Counselman, elevator Builder, Nasaka, Kas.

The injured are: F. F. Scott, Holton, Kas., express messenger, fatally injured internally; Col. C. J. Bills, Fairbury, Neb., treasurer of the National Guard association of the United States, leg badly cut, will recover; Jay McDowell, Fairbury, Neb., legs cut and head badly bruised, Harry Foote, Council Bluffs, brakeman, leg broken; J. E. Puetz, traveling man, Lincoln, internal injuries; two ladies living in the Billings block, Lincoln, slightly injured; a messenger named Somerel, hurt about the head.

A number of people are missing, and it is feared that Unrub, mother and son, of Janesen, Kas., are among the dead. M. Beaver, a clothing merchant, and B. Eddie, an insurance agent, both of Pawnee City, cannot be found, and are supposed to have perished. An unknown man, said to have come from McPherson, Kas., on the way to the Black Hills, is supposed to be among the dead.

It is reported by Brakeman Foote, the only one of the train crew who escaped, that five traveling men and two farmers were in the car and were burned.

There is no question but that the disaster is the work of train wreckers. J. W. Glover, a section man, today said he saw the three well-dressed men jump on a freight and go west. He said that the men each carried a long, brand new satchel. This gives rise to a suspicion that it may have been some of the Round Pound, Okla., enemies of the Rock Island. Marks made by a wrench on a loosened rail were plainly visible and the marks of a crowbar on the crossties were there. The wood of the ties was deeply dented where the crowbar had been inserted and the rails lifted clear off the ties, and the spikes which had been pulled out were lying around loose on the bridge.

C. H. Cherry, the injured mail clerk, was to have been married in a month. F. F. Scott, the baggagemaster, was the only unmarried man in the crew. He is a son of the Burlington surgeon at Horton, Kas.

The loss to the railroad company alone will amount to $30,000. How much money may have been lost through the mails and otherwise is not known.

Later reports give the following additional names of those killed:

Mr Munger, traveling man for Counselman, the grain dealer.

E. H. Yerneke, abstractor, Lincoln.

Henry Peters, blacksmith, Council Bluffs.

Colonel Bills says that two men in the front of the chair car were killed and burned and that he had hold of one trying to get him out but could not manage it. He thinks it would be impossible for a man to have escaped from the smoker. It fell headforemost on the engine and the chair car which followed flattened it. E. H. Zernke, of Lincoln, and Henry Peters, of Council Bluffs, are no doubt in the ruins. They were at Sprague yesterday and expected to return last night. The operator at Martell says that two Germans flagged the train.

THE DOG WAS MAD.

Officer Hines Kills a Canine With His Gun.

This morning Officer Hines was called to the residence of Charles A. Copp, 88½ Barr street, where he found the pug dog of Mr. Copp acting very strangely. It was said to be mad and was considered dangerous, and for this reason it was thought best to kill it. The officer consequently pulled his gun and killed the canine.

Detectives Will be Present.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 10.—Superintendent of Police Roger O'Mara has sent out circulars to the head police officials of fifteen of the largest cities in the United States, designating the detectives whom he would like to have here during the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic to assist the Pittsburg police. The men he has selected are among the best known in the country, and thieves will have a hard time of it in Pittsburg.

Had a Duel.

City of Mexico, Aug. 10.—In a duel with pistols last evening Senor Jose Verastegui, chief of the government stamp department, was killed by Francisco Romero, a well known congressman. The duel was the result of a quarrel over a woman. On the first fire Verastegui fell with a ball through the heart and the body was taken to the police station.

Nominated for Congress.

Holdridge, Neb., Aug. 10.—The republican congressional convention of the Fifth district early this morning nominated Prof. W. E. Andrews, of Hastings. He ran against Congressman McKeighan two years ago and was defeated.

CAN'T AGREE.

Democratic Tariff Conferees Hopelessly Divided.

This Was the Situation at Noon Today and the Prospects for a Favorable Turn Are Slim.

Washington, Aug. 10.—The democratic conferees resumed their sitting today and during the beginning of the conference there was an interchange of suggestions, based upon the offer made by the senate conferees last evening to accept free sugar, as provided in the house bill, the senate bill on iron ore to be accepted by the house. It did not take the conferees long to figure that they could come to no agreement on this basis and the first house member to make his appearance said so. Within half an hour after the conference began the senate conferees left the room and met Senator Gorman, of the committee of appropriations. Other conservative senators were sent for and it was said that a point had been reached where a decision one way or another must be reached. One of the house conferees said that the tension was very great and the situation unsettled, but that there must be a break up soon, as the present condition of affairs could not last.

One of the republican conferees said just after 12 o'clock that the republicans had not yet been called in but said emphatically that a disagreement had been decided upon by the democrats.

2 p. m.—It is stated on the authority of a conservative senator that the republican conferees will be called in today and that the senators will make a proposition to report a disagreement on the tariff bill. If the house will not accept this, a resolution is to be presented in the senate recalling the senate conferees. "It will be lively in here today," said one of the democratic senators who had just conferred with those managing the senate end of the contest.

At 12.25 p. m. Senator Hill tried to obtain recognition to offer a resolution calling for information as to the status of the tariff conference, but was temporarily crowded out by business. While the resolution of Mr. Hill was lying on the table Senator Gray moved an executive session. Few senators voted on the viva voca vote and Hill demanded the yeas and nays. The democrats generally voted for the motion. Hill, Murphy, Pugh, Palmer and Gibson voted no. Gorman, Harris and Jones did not vote. Vest voted aye. The motion was lost—yeas, 31; nays, 32.

Senator Hill's resolution requested the senate conferees to report to the senate the principal items of disagreement in the tariff bill and as to whether an agreement was likely to be reached. Senator Harris stated that the main disagreement was on sugar, coal and iron ore. Objections were made to the consideration of the resolution as it lacked unanimous consent. Mr. Hill insisted that it was a proper matter for the consideration of the senate at this time. The vice president decided that under the rules the resolution must lie over for a day. Senator Vest said he was in favor of the resolution. "When it comes before the senate tomorrow," he said, "I shall take occasion to make a statement before the senate which can be done without violation of the confidence of the conference. It is time, I think, that the calcium light of the house be thrown on the conference, that the calumnies and false issues which have been heaped upon the conference and sent broadcast over the country be dispelled. With this view I will, when the resolution is considered tomorrow, speak of the infamous lies which have been involved in circulation as to the work of the conferees on the part of the senate."

Senator Hill suggested, "Perhaps the senator would like to free his mind now."

"I am ready at any time," declared Mr. Vest.

Mr. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, executed a flank movement by calling up a resolution here offered by Senator Allen. The resolution was unimportant but it gave Mr. Aldrich the floor and he claimed the Allen resolution was morning business. He moved to strike out all after the word resolved, and insert the resolution of Mr. Hill. Fierce opposition was made to the consideration of the resolution.

Mr. Aldrich said the opponents were "trying to filibuster it out of sight when the country wanted information." Mr. Mills objected that the amendment was not germane to the resolution, which was for the consideration of a bill for the issue of $500,000,000 of treasury notes, which led Mr. Hill to ask: "Is the amendment not as germane as it is for a senator to discuss the Chinese question in a tariff speech?" Mr. Mills insisted it would be a breach of the rights of the house for the senate to direct its conferees to return the bill. At 2 o'clock the resolution and everything pertaining to it went over until tomorrow under the rules and the senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business.

WAYNE CELEBRATION ENDED.

Bicyclists and Farmers Parade—Picnic in the Afternoon.

Defiance, Ohio, Aug. 10.—The feature of the last day of the Wayne celebration was a wheelmen and farmers' parade. There were over five hundred bicyclists in line. The machines were nearly all decorated with buff and blue. The wheelmen were followed by 150 farmers's wagons loaded with farmers. The procession was headed by the Continental Guards of Fostoria and three companies of the Sixteenth regiment, I. N. G. The bicycle races took place yesterday afternoon. In the sixteen-mile road race there were ten starters. Calhoun, of Cleveland, won in a hot finish, with Hoffman, of Lima, and Harley, of this city, who finished in the order named—time, 55 21. Hoffman won one of the short races and Calhoun the others.

The farmers' picnic in the Falls Grove was largely attended in the afternoon. General Stevens and John Snook, democratic candidate for congress in this district, addressed the meeting. General Stevens made one of his characteristic speeches which pleased those present. Mr Snook paid a glowing tribute to the memory of Wayne and congratulated the people of this city and surrounding territory on the success of the centennial celebration, the biggest thing in the history of the northwest territory.

A society to be known as the Order of Anthony Wayne has been formed with a large membership. This society will meet in the old fort grounds annually August 8 to perpetuate the memory of Wayne and to keep the historic spot in its present condition, if possible.

THE GIRL FOUND.

The Police Succeed in Locating Altie Karebier.

She is With Her Grandfather, Near the Reformed Orphans' Home—Police Court Notes.

Peter Foust, a well known resident of this city has informed the police that he has found Alice Karebier, the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matler, whom the officers have been looking for during the past few days. Foust is the child's grandfather and lives near the Reformed orphan's home. He is an old soldier and says he will keep the girl at his home as she has been running wild.

SHOT AT BUMS.

Last night about 8 o'clock Sheriff Clausemeier and Officer Coling were called to North Barr street, where a lot of vagrants had congregated along the river bank. As soon as the hobos saw the officers they fled in all directions and were aided along by a number of shots fired into the air. One fellow was so badly frightened that he plunged into the river, floundered across and escaped down the Nickel Plate tracks.

ONCE PROSPEROUS

Yesterday afternoon the patrol wagon was called to the house of J. K. McCracken, on West Wayne street, where a drunken man had fallen on the sidewalk in a stupor. The man gave his name as Peter William Thompson and was bordering on delerium tremens this morning. Some years ago he came to this city with considerable money and engaged in putting down sidewalks. He was fined $1 and costs and sent to jail.

Johnny Appleseed, a drunk, and Charles Day, a vagrant, were each sent to jail, the former for eleven days and the latter for six days.

SHORT CHANGE SHARPERS.

Yesterday afternoon a gang of sharpers tried to operate in this city but were run out promptly by the police. Two of them went into Nierman's drug store and ordered cigars, offering in payment a $20 bill. In making the change they attempted to befuddle Mr. Nierman in a number of ways, but were fired out of the store bodily. The same fellows tried to work Martin Lill, the saloonkeeper, but failed. When the gang found they were being hunted by the police they made themselves scarce.

A PIONEER LADY.

Mrs. Mary Niemann, One of Our Early Settlers, Dies.

Funeral of the Late Fred Eckart Very Largely Attended—Other Deaths and Funerals.

Last night at her home, 272 East Washington street, occurred the death of Mrs. Mary Nieman, one of the earliest pioneer residents of Fort Wayne. Mrs. Nieman was born in Germany in the year 1830, and when a child came to America, arriving in Fort Wayne when she was four years of age. She was married twice, John Horstman being her first husband, who died nearly thirty years ago. Theodore Nieman, her second husband, died July 16, 1892. He formerly conducted a grocery business on East Washington street. The deceased has occupied her present home at 272 East Washington street for a quarter of a century. There are nine children who survive her, all of whom live in this city: John and Henry Horstman and Miss Caroline Horstman, Bernard and John Nieman, Mrs Michael Gotts, Mrs. John Neiman, and Misses Clara and Tracy Nieman. The deceased has been a sufferer from asthma, which caused her death. She was a member of St. Mary's Catholic church.

The funeral will be held on Monday morning from the church.

OTHER DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

The funeral of the late Fred Eckart was held at the residence, on East Wayne street, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The pall bearers were Messrs. J. D. Bond, E. C. Rurode, J. M. Kane, J. B. White, J. H. Bass, Jacob Klett and B. Eisenhauer, of Huntington. The funeral was largely attended.

J. D. Williams expert accountant, Office: 63 East Main street.

RABBI HIRSCHBERG.

The Popular Young Hebrew Divine at Wheeling, W. Va.

He Delivers a Lecture at a Camp Meeting—Reception Given in His Honor.

Rev. Samuel Hirschberg, the scholarly and popular young rabbi of the Achduth Veshalom congregation of this city, has been at Wheeling, W. Va., attending the big camp meetings which have been in progress at the Moundsville camp grounds near that city, and the Daily Register, of that place, gives the following account of a lecture delivered by him and a reception given in his honor:

"Rev. Samuel Hirschberg, a prominent young Jewish rabbi from Fort Wayne, Ind., who has been a guest of relatives in Wheeling, visited his cousin, Mrs W. H. Frank, at the camp ground hotel yesterday. Last evening he delivered a lecture in the auditorium for the benefit of the Young People's Temple. His theme was, 'Men, Brothers All,' and he handled it in a masterful way, holding the undivided attention of his hearers for an hour and thirty minutes. He is an excellent speaker, eloquent at times, and always interesting. Through his efforts a neat sum was realized for the object for which the lecture was given.

"A reception in his honor was arranged by a number of ladies in the camp grounds. It took place in the parlors of the hotel, between the hours of two and five o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was a complete success. The parlors were tastefully decorated with flowers and plants, and presented a very pleasing appearance. Mrs. Frank was assisted in receiving by Mrs. P. B. Dobbins and Miss Helen Harrison. Mrs. John Shellhase rendered excellent piano music during the afternoon, and the program was varied by pleasing vocal selections.

"Nearly all the ladies and gentlemen on the camp grounds were present during the hours of the reception. The ladies of the receiving party wore strikingly handsome costumes, and some fetching gowns were noticed among the guests. The affair was the more enjoyable because informal."

HE COULDN'T SWIM.

Rev. Northrop Meets With a Mishap Up in Michigan.

While Out Fishing His Boat is Capsized and He Flounders Around in the Water for Half an Hour.

Rev. and Mrs. S. A. Northrop are at Fenton, Mich., spending their summer vacation and while out fishing last Monday morning the popular Baptist pastor met with a mishap, an involuntary baptism in fact, which The Sentinel thinks is a "good one" to tell on the reverend gentleman. The Courier, of Fenton, in speaking of the mishap, says: "Rev. S. A. Northrop and M. Joslin were fishing Monday morning when their boat capsized. The reverend gentleman cannot swim, and it was only by the most energetic and persistent efforts that they regained possession of their overturned boat. They finally reached land in safety, but were greatly exhausted by their adventure."

They had just finished fishing and were about to start for home, when in pulling up a anchor which held the boat in place, the rope broke and threw both the occupants into the water. It must have been a sight to have seen Rev. Northrop floundering around in the water and unable to swim, but he is equal to any occasion, and "he pulled for the shore," although he was nearly half an hour reaching it.

The Tabernacle pastor may have some big fish stories to tell when he reaches home, but it will without doubt keep him busy for awhile explaining to his friends why he did not learn to swim when he was a boy.

THE BORTON BOYS

Will Go to Warsaw One Week From Next Tuesday.

There will be an annual reunion of the Borton boys at Lakeside park, Warsaw, on Tuesday, August 28, and it is designed to have present at that time all those who have been at the Plymouth institute, and there are hundreds of them throughout the state.

It will be a picnic occasion, embracing in its main features a basket dinner, refreshments, speeches, etc., and having for its main object the establishment of good-fellowship among the cured men and women.

On this account the Borton boys of this city have arranged to run a special train to Warsaw on that day. The fare for the round trip will be only $1, and everybody is invited to go with them. T. N. Roach, at the insurance office of Eversole, Roach & Slater, No. 12 West Wayne street, has charge of the affair, and all those who desire to help the Borton boys of this city along in their efforts to redeem men from the drink habit are urged to purchase a ticket of him.

BIG WINE SYNDICATE

Which Will Control the Wine Business of California.

San Francisco, Aug. 10.—The big wine syndicate which has been formed here to control the wine business of the state will control 80 per cent. of the grape product of California for the next five years. Its formation doubles the value of the crop, as the present price of grapes is $5 a ton, while the syndicate promises to pay not less than $10 a ton. Seven houses are in the syndicate and more will probaby be admitted soon. The capital stock of the company is $10,000,000, of which $600,000 have been subscribed. The houses transfer all their assets to the syndicate, but each will preserve its identity, keeping its labels, trade marks and brands, while doing business as part of the syndicate. All of the business will be done under the supervision of the board of directors. One branch of the business will be to advance $2,500,000 annually to vineyardists for expenses in cultivating vines, gathering grapes and making wines. It is probable that later a central depot will be established for the storage of wines and brandies. The place of business of the syndicate is to be San Francisco, and the term of business fifty years. This move on the part of the wine men of California is expected to revive the languishing industry of the state and make wine growing profitable.

SMALL BOY KILLED.

Falls From the Overhead Bridge on Gay Street.

Albert Willard, Step Son of Albert Drewett, Meets a Shocking Death—His Mother Prostrated.

A sad accident befel a six year-old lad named Albert Williard, yesterday afternoon about 4.30 o'clock, at the Gay street bridge, over the Pittsburg and Wabash railway tracks.

During the afternoon young Williard and a number of other small boys were playing about the crossing and on the bridge. This is a wooden structure guarded by a narrow railing, which at the highest point is about twenty-five feet from the ground. The boys bantered each other to walk across on the railing and this feat young Williard accomplished successfully twice. The third time, however, he attempted to turn around at the very highest point. As a result he lost his balance and fell headlong to the tracks below, striking his head on either a rail or a tie.

The boy was fearfully crushed, the brains oozing from a shocking wound in the top and back part of his head. It was thought he was dead and the undertaker was called. The lad was only unconscious, however, although in a dying condition, and was taken to his home, No. 231 Harmer street, in the patrol wagon. Dr. Kessler was called, but pronounced the case hopeless, and at 8 o'clock the boy passed away.

The mother of the lad, Mrs. Drewett, has been quite ill and not able to be up, but yesterday, when she heard of the accident she rushed down to meet the patrol wagon and is now in a serious condition from nervous prostration.

The boy was a stepson of Albert Drewett, a well-known canvasser, who was a soldier and is prominent in Grand Army circles. Mr. Drewett's home is in Bluffton, though he is temporarily residing in this city.

Undertakers Kerlin & Bicom took charge of the body and Coroner Harrod held the inquest today, rendering a verdict in accordance with the facts.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from the residence.

DON'T LIKE THE CANDIDATE.

Elkhart County Republicans in a Dilemma.

Goshen, Ind., Aug. 10.—The Elkhart county republican central committee held a meeting in this city yesterday and engaged in secret discussion as to the best course to pursue to force their candidate for representative to withdraw from the ticket. The candidate, George W. Ferral, secured the nomination as the result of a bitter factional fight between Elkhart and Goshen. His nomination was a great surprise to the party managers, who foresee his easy defeat, although the county is heavily republican. Heroic measures have been taken to induce him to voluntarily withdraw. This he declines to do and the bosses have decided to force him from the ticket. They find but one precedent on which to base their action, but have decided to risk it. In 1876 the republican state committee removed Godlove S. Orth from the head of the state ticket and substituted General Harrison's name.

ELECTRIC LINE ON ROADS.

Madison County Permits the Use of Its Turnpike.

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 10.—The Madison county commissioners last night granted a franchise to a company of Indiana capitalists for the construction of an electric railroad across the county, using as the line the sides of the county turnpike. The road is to be known as the Indiana Gas Belt Electric line, and is to run from Indianapolis to Marion, passing through Ingalls, Fortville, Pendleton, Anderson, Alexandria, Gas City and Jonesboro, a distance of seventy-five miles. According to the franchise granted work is to be commenced at once, and is to be pushed rapidly to completion, according to R. J. Clodfeller, of Crawfordsville, and V. C. Quick and A. N. Pointer, of Alexandria, who appeared in behalf of the company.

Work will be commenced near Alexandria at once and the line between Marion and Anderson will be in operation this fall. The Anderson-Indianapolis branch is to be completed in the early spring. The company is to be incorporated at once with a paid up capital stock of $200,000 and a bonded stock of $100,000. Capt W. R. Myers, secretary of state, is one of the stockholders. The scheme is similar in route and detail to the Pennington bubble that burst last fast.

The natural gas ordinance will come up for consideration at the next meeting of the city council. The consumers in Fort Wayne should be given gas at reasonable rates

Six weeks without rain! That is the record in this city. This with the oppressive heat was pretty hard for us mortals to bear but the rain came to day and brought relief

The duty of keeping bad books and bad newspapers from the hands of youth is obvious. Parents ought to scrupulously guard their homes against those dangerous newspapers which fill their columns with scandals and immoral sensations

The report of the joint committee of the city council on the annexation of South Wayne is to be presented to the council at the meeting Tuesday night and will recommend that it be made a separate ward to be known as the eleventh. If the project meets with no obstruction South Wayne will be a part of the city by September 1

The question is often asked 'When is one most content?' We would say while you are at work with both mind and hands. Did you ever stop to think that you feel the heat more on Sundays than during the week days even though the temperature be higher all week? This is one proof that people are most content while they are busy and that they do not then have time or opportunity to notice such trifling things as appear very prominent when the mind and hands are unemployed

It has been rumored in some quarters that at the coming democratic state convention at Indianapolis efforts would be made by the populists to bring about a fusion of their forces with the democrats. There will probably be nothing of this sort unless the populists come in as democrats and subscribe to the principles of our platform. There are some features in the populist platform which are democratic enough, the declaration for tariff reform and the approval of an income tax. But between democratic principles and populist theories there is a very marked division and any strength gained by fusion will be more than offset by the disaffection of those democrats who cannot endorse the wilder demands of the populists

The supreme tent Knights of the Maccabees at Port Huron Mich has called a state convention for Indiana to meet at Fort Wayne September 4 to consider the question of forming a great camp in this state. If such a camp is formed Fort Wayne will enter the race for the state headquarters and if successful in securing it the permanent officers of the camp will be located in this city. The Knights of the Maccabees is a flourishing and growing institution with members in every state of the Union and the location of the state headquarters in this city would be advantageous to Fort Wayne. THE SENTINEL hopes that the Knights of the Maccabees here will put forth their best efforts to secure the state headquarters for this city. With our central business location and excellent railroad facilities, no better city in the state could be selected

Our Centennial Anniversary

The board of county commissioners acting upon the advice of their attorney have refused to give the amount asked by the committee for the celebration of the centennial of the building of the old fort in this city. This they did because they were advised that the voting of such an appropriation by them would be illegal and not because they were not heartily in favor of an appropriate celebration of the centennial, for in talking with the commissioners THE SENTINEL learns that each one of them will do all they possibly can personally to advance the arrangements for a proper observance by the city and county of the event

On account of this action of the commissioners the local centennial committee will tender back to the city council their offer of $3 000 which had been voted them and resign their positions as members of the committee. An effort will then be made so Capt Allen Dougall tells THE SENTINEL to raise the money for the celebration by private subscription and this he believes can be done.

The citizens of Defiance raised $4 000 for their centennial celebration and the citizens of Hamilton Ohio contributed $7 000 for a like purpose in their city. Both of these places have a population of less than 10 000 inhabitants and if their citizens can contribute in this manner surely Fort Wayne with her 43 000 population can raise a like sum

Captain Dougall believes that Fort Wayne's centennial will be celebrated although the celebration may not be on the scale originally intended. Surely our citizens ought not to allow this event to pass without doing it honor and THE SENTINEL does not believe that they will. Let the centennial be celebrated and our business men and citizens generally will help it along.

Features in Tomorrow's Sentinel

The readers of THE SENTINEL are so well acquainted with the value of the reading matter in the Saturday's edition of THE SENTINEL that it is perhaps unnecessary for us to call attention to it. It is the paper of the week and is always the favorite in the home circle because it contains a number of articles on special themes written by well known authors and full of interest and information. Besides being a newspaper giving all the local and telegraphic news of the day it is a literary volume replete with excellent reading matter on a variety of subjects and possessing the merit of being up with the times

Tomorrow's SENTINEL will contain a letter from Washington written by our special correspondent at the national capital on the big and little things that congress has done. It tells of much of the important work that congress has done during the present session not in detail but by picking out special features and commenting upon the work of the committees. The letter gives the reader an insight into congressional work and it will well pay an attentive perusal

It seems to be generally conceded that so far as mere members go the government of the Celestial empire can count on many more fighting men than can that of the land of the chrysanthemum in the war that seems now to have really been begun over the Hermit Kingdom as Korea is often termed. On the other hand it is claimed that the Japanese soldiers are better drilled and better equipped than are the Chinese and better fighters to boot and that by reason of these things Japan has an excellent chance of winning. This question of the fighting forces of these two empires will be taken up in tomorrow's SENTINEL and discussed by a writer who is qualified to give a great deal of valuable information on the subject

Fourteen surviving members of the whaler James Allen which was shipwrecked in Behring sea a few months ago recently arrived in San Francisco and related tales of hardships and suffering such as seldom fall to the lot of men even of those who brave the dangers of the deep and the rigors of the frozen north. The harrowing experience of this whaling crew will be told in an article which we will use in tomorrow's issue

People who like to read stories about haunted houses and ghosts will be suited with an article entitled 'The Monk Came Back' in tomorrow's SENTINEL. It is a strange story of a visit to a haunted house in London made by members of the society for physical research. The ghosts were there sure enough and thoroughly frightened the physical researchers with their uncanny manifestations. The article is illustrated and three columns in length

Bill Nye and M Quad with their humor will be on hand tomorrow and with other articles which we have not space to mention tomorrow's SENTINEL will be an interesting issue

In Line With American Thought.

The movement in the Catholic church to advance temperance and abstinence indicates a shaking off of foreign impressions. The apparent laxity of the Catholic church towards the liquor traffic was an importation which came in with the foreign immigration with that spirit which changed the character of Sunday observance in this country. In Germany France or Italy after the services of Sunday morning the worshipers spent the rest of the day in a garden and indulging in gayety and drinking beer and wine. The priest might also follow and look at them without reproach. Such a people and priest transplanted to America could not be expected to adopt the ultra American views of the Sabbath or drinking. The influx of foreigners impressed some of their customs upon this country and the climate and high pressure of life here turned many a foreign born citizen from beer and wine to spirits. None learned more quickly than the foreigner the opportunities in our political system for the liquor seller and the chances it gave him to protect his business. Undoubtedly before our population became so largely foreign the American standards of temperance and Sunday observance were higher than those prevailing in Continental Europe or in Great Britain and northern Europe

As a transplanted plant will grow with greater luxuriance in a new soil habits and customs which had been harmless or comparatively so in Europe branched out into excesses in America. As Satolli said there are evils connected with the liquor traffic that are peculiar to this country and unknown in Europe

Both in its attitude towards temperance and education the Catholic church is more American and less influenced by European ideas than it once was. We do not understand that it is advocating prohibition but the curbing into restraint and decency a traffic which should not be master where its right to be a servant is not conceded. The late movements in the Catholic church shows a desire to be in line with the best aspirations of American life and thought. The German priest of an humble flock may watch his people go to the Sunday garden or evening music hall without reproach but the American priest knows that will not do for Americans. He is no longer a foreigner but an American. His people are the equals socially and politically of their fellows and he wants them to be equals as moral and spiritual forces

I think I have never [illegible] much [illegible] fancy [illegible] into definite style [illegible] is just now. The [illegible] are [illegible] with a decided [illegible] pronounced [illegible] dress [illegible] are [illegible] the lower skirts is of a material and [illegible] entirely different from the upper [illegible]. The [illegible] regular skirts [illegible] stiffened with horsehair and grass [illegible] until they stand out and almost balance like hoops. [illegible] fitting gored and [illegible] skirts are also shown [illegible] gathered [illegible] and yet others laid in [illegible]

One [illegible] costume is the under skirt of [illegible] serge blue and gray laid [illegible] all the way around. Over [illegible] an [illegible] shaped overskirt made of navy B B serge plainly hemmed about the bottom and having a pointed band around [illegible] making a girdle. The waist is of striped goods in the form of a shirt and over this is an Eton [illegible] of the blue with wide sailor collar and cuffs of serge. The upper portion of the sleeve is large and full. A cord ending with [illegible] tied at the bust makes a pretty finish. In this dress we have the 1830 sleeve and the kilt and draped overskirt of 15 years ago and the Eton which is [illegible] modern invention [illegible] but one destined to always remain popular. It is more becoming [illegible] street [illegible] or Smith jackets [illegible]. The kilt skirt is a boon to many [illegible] who do not look well in the severity of an undraped skirt.

In children's [illegible] is much of the same [illegible] of the [illegible] of the different [illegible]. The [illegible] dress [illegible] Mother Hubbard as well as [illegible] of the quaint little Greenaways. The 1830 modes are also to be found for little girls. I remember one made of flax colored wool delaine. There was a very short yoke to which the whole dress was plaited, the seams under the arms only being gored slightly. The plaits were [illegible] to the waist line and then left to fall loose. Around the neck was a parrot ruffle and there was a wide [illegible] full on the shoulders and brought down to a point in front where there was a [illegible] of ribbon to match. From beneath this two ends of ribbon were carried around the waist and tied in the back in long loops. There was a printed band of brown and white around the bottom and on the bertha and sleeves. This is woven on the dress material to use as trimming. The large gigot sleeves and the waist trimming give this simple but extremely pretty gown its distinction. It would be a good model to follow in any goods not to be laundered.

I saw another dress for a little girl that I thought very dainty. It was of fine wool challie in cream ground with sprays of goldenrod in its palest tints scattered over it. Around the straight hem was a band of watered ribbon of the exact shade of the frosty green leaves of the goldenrod. The waist had a shirred yoke, the rest of the fullness being gathered to the belt which was of hunter's green velvet. I should have said that the yoke was of the velvet in the upper part and so was the collar. There was a plaited ruffle of the moire ribbon above the velvet collar. The sleeves were bishop with deep velvet cuffs edged with plaited ribbon and having besides a fall of white lace. Nothing could be prettier than this cool and dainty little frock.

Some new and bewitching gowns and hats are being shown now at the races at Saratoga and elsewhere which are said to be exact counterparts of those seen at the famous Grand Prix of Paris. Among them I singled out two for special mention. One was of ivory white chine silk, the skirt having three flounces, one topping the other and each having a row of white lace insertion set over a band of pale lilac ribbon. The French waist is nearly covered with perpendicular bands of insertion over the ribbon and the enormous sleeves are draped and puffed with many bows of lilac satin ribbon. A white silk parasol has five deep ruffles of chiffon embroidered lightly with lilac silk and has a large bunch of lilac [illegible] ribbon tied to the top and another one on the handle. The hat is a flat sailor shape with tulle puffs all around the crown and with two stiff bows made of tulle with lace and ribbon in the middle, the whole covered by a tulle veil which crosses in the back and [illegible] in the front in a large incroyable bow. Purple silk mitts complete as exquisite a toilet as one can well imagine.

The other costume was of hunter's green faille. The skirt was gored and had fan plaits of hunter's green velvet let in each apex, having a velvet bow and rhinestone buckle. There was [illegible] jacket [illegible] shaped in the back and having a full vest front of [illegible] white chine silk with a [illegible] and [illegible] frill of the same and a [illegible] turndown collar. There were two velvet straps across the front to hold the jacket in place. The large gigot sleeves had cuffs [illegible] deep full ruffles of the silk at the wrist and there were two ruffles cut on the straight fulled around the shoulder. The hat was of [illegible] Neapolitan with green velvet bows and drapery and three black tips. The gloves were light tan [illegible] and stitched with [illegible]. These two gowns make tasteful foils to each other.

Two more lovely costumes are to go to Saratoga soon. One of them is of quaker drab [illegible] crepe. The skirt is plain but made to look very elaborate by the arrangement of the trimming. There is a band of emerald green velvet ribbon going down the right side and reaching across the foot and then up on the left side in a similar way, leaving the front breadth plain. Over this and extending out on to the skirt is a rich lacelike passementerie in mat white silk. There are three rows of this same combination of trimming all around the back of the skirt at equal distances. The waist is plain and round, having a belt of drab moire ribbon. The sleeves are medium gigots and there is a deep pelerine bertha of the dress material trimmed like the skirt but with the passementerie hanging from the lower edge. A more elegant and chic [illegible] gown for dress [illegible] could [illegible] be desired.

The [illegible] gown was intended more particularly for dancing. It was of pale shrimp pink silk [illegible] and was trimmed with [illegible] gathered flounces of fine white [illegible] edged [illegible] Spanish ruffles. Between the three lace flounces [illegible] flat bands of white insertion. The flounces were graduated in width, the bottom one being the deepest. Around the half low neck the dress was a great [illegible] trimming of pink taffeta [illegible] same shade [illegible] and [illegible] full deep ruffles of the [illegible] where the ends [illegible] hidden under a [illegible] bow of taffeta. The sleeves reached only to the elbow. [illegible] were deeply draped and were finished [illegible] narrow pulling of taffeta. The gloves were pink silk mousquetaires. This [illegible] model would be quite as dainty in any [illegible] color and [illegible] white. I did [illegible] with white lace and white [illegible] ribbon belt and shoulder [illegible] of different shades [illegible] gowns for evening [illegible] may be trimmed in [illegible]. Generally speaking there is little trimming upon skirts of dancing dresses [illegible] pretty fancy to have such [illegible] of pinked taffeta or silk muslin [illegible] narrow [illegible] the dress [illegible] fringe [illegible] the pinked edges and [illegible] a very light and pleasing effect. Two rows of this garniture are quite sufficient to produce a good effect.

Black and white [illegible] to have a great run this coming fall for street as well as evening gowns. The [illegible] and white [illegible] silks [illegible] large [illegible] and [illegible] will be employed with [illegible] more [illegible] in combination with black velvet. The checked silks will be for the lower skirt and the accessories to the waists.

The waists [illegible] as much [illegible] and [illegible] there will be as many as four different materials or colors in a waist while more of them shows in the skirt. Great ruffs of chiffon and silk muslin will be—in fact are beginning to be—worn by those who are able to have the first of every new thing.

AFTERNOON AND EVENING GOWNS

I must not omit to mention that bengaline in white and ivory tints will be very much worn for [illegible] gowns and evening costumes. When these are for tea gowns the combination will be of velvet plush or some other rich silk such as brocade or ottoman with lace as a finish and perhaps a band of ostrich plumes down the fronts. For dinner or evening wear they will be trimmed heavily with silver or pearl beaded gimps, fringes and passementeries.

I saw one neat white bengaline evening dress for a lady now at Newport. It was en princesse and with a pompadour neck. There was a corselet of fine black beaded passementerie in very openwork pattern and that reached below the hips and ended in a superb jet fringe, each strand ending in a slender jet piquet. Around the bottom of the skirt, which was trained quite long, there was a series of palm leaves worked in fine jet, the lower edges forming scallops. Under these there was a very full knife plaiting of pale mauve satin. The sleeves reached to the elbows only and there ended with a rich jet fringe. The corselet of jet reached clear around the waist, the jet fringe hanging much lower in the back than the front. The whole skirt was lined with some very stiff material and had altogether a regal appearance.

There was one other magnificent gown of bengaline which I must mention. This was made with a gored skirt and demitrain. There was an applique of black Spanish lace all around the skirt half a yard deep, from which all the mesh had been clipped, leaving only the heavy figure. This was sewed to the bengaline and here and there a fine cut jet bead was added. The figure was turned upward. A narrow row of beaded gimp encircled the skirt set just on the edge. Under the edge of the skirt were four knife edge plaitings which would show only as the wearer might move. The waist was cut pompadour and with deep points front and back, which were furnished with eyelets and black silk cord and laced up. Around the square neck was a large bertha ruffle of black lace over white silk. The sleeves were extremely large puffs of white and silver brocade with a fall of Spanish lace at the elbows where they ended. This fall of lace was narrow on the upper part of the arm and wide at the back. To go with this gown there was an enormous fan of black lace over white satin. There was a silver chain and a clasp made of silver set with rhinestones which is intended to fasten on the waist.

MATE LEROY

A Summer Resort Tyro

The youth in white flannel suit, russet shoes, albino pink shirt and pancake hat was doing his first time at a summer resort hotel and he had as his companion something very similar in his makeup but of three or four seasons' experience at summer resorts. In a burst of confidence after the first week of it the new fellow called the veteran aside

'I say Tom,' he said blushing much and whispering low, 'if I tell you something will you keep dead still about it?'

'Sure. What is it?' and the blase youth was almost interested

'Swear you won't say anything?'

'Of course I swear. Now, what is the great secret?'

'Well old fellow,' this with many blushes and much hesitancy, 'I'm engaged'

'No. You don't say so!' and the veteran smiled

'Yes I'm engaged,' he nodded cheerily

'To how many?'

'How many?' gasped the new one. 'One of course. How many did you think pray'

The veteran pulled himself together

'That's so,' he said. 'Excuse me. I forgot that you were only an amateur.'—Detroit Free Press

Orders A plenty

Two men not too well dressed stood at the corner of Second and Jefferson streets yesterday morning. The face of neither wore an expression that would betoken feelings of happiness. Each one carried in his hand one of those small square satchels with which book agents are always supplied. While waiting for a car this conversation passed

First Agent—Well Harry did you get any orders today?

Second Agent—Not an order Will. I never saw people so crabbed in my life. How did you do? Did you get any orders?

Oh I did very well. I got an order every place I went into. They ordered me to get out you know.—Courier Journal

Equal to the Occasion

A certain tailor whose customers were rich and fashionable people, found great difficulty in getting them to pay their bills promptly. While he was at Brighton for his holidays he went one morning for a bath. He had just made a dive from the steps of his bathing machine when on coming up to the surface of the water he found himself close to a customer who had long been in his debt. He at once seized the opportunity and asked the gentleman when he was going to settle his little account

'Oh you shall have it at once,' was the reply, 'you shall have it at once—if you have the bill with you.'—Tit-Bits.

LIGHTS OF THE LEGAL WORLD

They Will Shine In Saratoga When the American Bar Association Meets.

Barristers briefless and otherwise—principally the latter—will talk shop at Saratoga Aug 2[illegible] when the seventeenth annual convention of the American Bar association opens that day. The convention will be held in Convention hall and the session will begin with an address by Judge Thomas M Cooley of Ann Arbor Mich the present president of the association. The election of members and the general council and the reports of officers will follow. In the evening Hampton L Carson of Pennsylvania will deliver [illegible] 'Great Dissenting Opinions' and Charles Claflin Allen of Mississippi will read a timely and interesting address on 'Injunction and Organized Labor.'

Moorfield Storey of Massachusetts will open the second day's session with an address and interesting papers will be read by eminent legal luminaries. In the evening special committees on uniform state laws, expression and classification of the law and federal code and criminal procedure will make their reports. At this session the association will again discuss the great question of uniform divorce laws

THOMAS M COOLEY

President Cooley was born in Attica, N Y in 1824. He studied law and was admitted to the bar of Michigan in 1845. In 1857 he was elected compiler of the state laws and the following year became reporter of the supreme court. He organized the law department of the University of Michigan in 1859 and in 1864 was appointed justice of the supreme court of Michigan and three years later was made chief justice. In 1885 he sought re election but was defeated.

When the interstate commerce commission was organized Judge Cooley's great reputation as a jurist impelled President Cleveland to appoint him a member of the commission and his associates elected him chairman. Ill health compelled him to resign in 1891. Judge Cooley is a very unsentimental looking man, but he eloped with the girl who became his wife. Young law students who appear backward in their struggles with Blackstone, Kent and Parsons may find a grain of hope in the fact that after young Cooley had been holding down a chair in a law office for a year the attorney he was studying with told him solemnly that he would never make a lawyer if he studied law 50 years

TO TEACH CHINESE GIRLS

Miss Etta Montgomery's Mission Will Keep Her Ten Years In the Celestial Empire

To minister to the spiritual and physical needs of the young girls of China is the mission Miss Etta Montgomery has chosen and she will leave for the other side of the globe to carry out her philanthropic plans as soon as the warcloud that now overhangs China and Japan shall have passed away. Her work will be done on the island of Hainan, just off the coast of China, and if health and life are spared her she will remain at her post for 10 years. The field is a new one, and in her work Miss Montgomery will be assisted by a trained native woman. The Chinese are by no means total strangers to her for the reason that as a member of the Rescue band she has accomplished much good in the Chinese quarter in New York city

When she reaches her island station a boarding school for girls will be established and there will also be a day school. The work done will be chiefly along educational lines but Miss Montgomery has taken a year's course of training with the International Medical

MISS ETTA MONTGOMERY

Missionary society in New York and is consequently well prepared to look after the physical as well as spiritual well being of her little almond eyed charges

Miss Montgomery was born in New York city but has passed the most of her life in the west. For several years she was principal of one of the largest schools in Topeka and was state financial secretary of the Young Women's Christian association. Her work in China will be done under the auspices of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions.

From seven to ten years is the usual time that a missionary remains at his or her post and none of them feels like returning before that time unless ordered by a physician.

Of Interest to Mothers.

The success of Mrs. Annie M Beam of McKeesport Pennsylvania in the treatment of diarrhoea in her children will undoubtedly be of interest to many mothers. She says 'I spent several weeks in Johnstown Pa after the great flood on account of my husband being employed there. We had several children with us two of whom took the diarrhoea very badly. I got some of Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy from Rev Mr Chapman. It cured both of them. I knew of several other cases where it was equally successful. I think it cannot be excelled and cheerfully recommend it.' 25c and 50c bottles for sale by druggists

PULLMAN IN TOWN.

Passed Through Here this Morning on the Limited.

A Southern Pacific Official Talks on the Strike Question—Engine Men Discharged

One of the passengers on the Pennsylvania limited this morning was George M Pullman who was enroute to his home in Chicago Another occupant of the private car which carried Mr Pullman was Robert T Lincoln ex minister to England This is Mr Pullman's first visit to the scene of the origin of the great railway strike since last June

WILL BLACKLIST THE MEN

The San Francisco Examiner says General Superintendent Filmore of the Southern Pacific was asked today whether the company is preventing members of the American Railway union who engaged in the strike from getting employment of any kind Mr Filmore said

We have no use for men who engaged in the late strike and will not encourage them in any way

Suppose those strikers should obtain other employment would your company go out of its way to have them discharged? was asked

Yes answered Mr Filmore If I know that a man was not true to his company and if I find out that he has got a job anywhere I will pursue him and use my best efforts to get him discharged These fellows who killed our engines destroyed our property and murdered our employes shall never earn bread and butter in California if I can help it Against those men who did not take any active part in the strike I have nothing to say I have no bitter feelings against them for we do not consider that they were altogether to blame, but for those who lead the strikers we have no such consideration I have no use for fellows of that kind and do not intend that they shall make a living as long as they are within my reach

The Big Four Indianapolis division Wednesday turned over to the Lake Shore at Cleveland four trains of Niagara Falls excursionists carrying 1,552 people

E B Kunkle, the successful inventor and pop safety valve manufacturer has just received a patent on a new pop safety valve and also a muffler attachment for same.

The first seven months of this year the Pennsylvania road handled 6 307,89? tons of coal which was a decrease as compared with the same period of 1893 of 2 262 109 tons

George Graham, painter in the Pittsburg shops and his family left on No 4 this morning for Nevada, Ohio where they will visit Mr Graham's brother and then go to Crestline to visit other relatives

It is stated officially that the Indianapolis & Vincennes road in July came within a few dollars of earning as much as in July, 1893 This is one division of the Pennsylvania system which did not suffer from the strike.

Peter Junk, of the Pittsburg planing mills and Miss Julia Smith, of Johns street, will be married next Thursday morning The ceremony will be performed at St. Peter's church and will be witnessed by a large number of friends

The grain and other freight business on the Wabash is so rushing that engine and train crews are being kept on the road day and night All locomotives that can be spared from the passenger service are employed in the freight traffic

The Pullman company has prepared and printed a pamphlet of about twenty five pages in which is set forth the history of the big strike and its bearings upon the company The book consists of clippings from the newspapers of the entire country in regard to the strike

The third ball game between the Pennsylvania shopmen at this place and those of Allegheny will take place at Crestline tomorrow Our boys will leave for that city on No 5 tonight The game was to take place in September but for some reason it was thought best to have it earlier

The Ferris wheel will be moved east from Chicago over the Lake Shore. The axle which weighs seventy tons will be shipped on the same car which carried the big Krupp cannon and it will require five trains of thirty cars each to convey to its destination all of the material of which the great wheel was composed

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good is an adage which is verified in the following clipping from the Elkhart Truth D L Spencer the operator at Dunlaps who was dismissed on account of a wreck at that place some months ago is now foreman of a painters gang at Brooklyn N Y at a salary of $4 per day

It is reported that a number of the ex employes of the Grand Trunk, who failed to get their positions back when the strike ended will go to South America to work on some of the new railway lines now being pushed across the continent Good wages and free transportation as far as Santiago Chili are some of the inducements offered

A rails now manufactured by the Scranton steel mills when coming off of the converter are 130 feet in length and after turned out are cut any desired length A number of roads are now using as an experiment a rail one hundred feet in length and overcome the objection of using a long rail by having track layers place them in position instead of increasing the section force to the number of men required to handle them

Western roads will soon be asked to lower their rates on through lake and rail business via Chicago in order that the lake lines from Chicago can meet competition via Toledo At present rates from Mississippi river points to the seaboard via Toledo are two cents lower than via Chicago A committee of the Lake Line Agents association has been appointed to confer with Chairman Midgely of the Western Freight association on the matter

The Delaware and Hudson Canal road for a long series of years has not failed to pay a 7 per cent dividend on its stock which is $30 000 000 It has a light bonded debt which is being rapidly cut down every dollar being taken up as it matures, and after paying its last dividend the company had a surplus or dividend fund of $7 221-548 92 besides $1 057 636 01 advanced royalties on coal The company is interested in twenty nine of the larger of the coal mines on its lines of road.

All the Pittsburg conductors and flagmen have been instructed to keep a close watch for fire along the line of the road and if any is discovered to report the same to the first section gang they meet Blank cards have been furnished the trainmen and when they have a fire to report they fill out the blank space stating the place and hour at which fire was discovered and throw the card off the train to the section men The latter will at once mount their hand car and proceed to the scene of the fire

Harrison township Wells county Tuesday by a vote of 463 to 350 authorized the appropriation of $35 000 in aid of the Cincinnati Union City and Chicago railroad This aid was voted last year but owing to some informality in the proceedings the county commissioners declined to levy the tax in the township and the road, now in process of construction was to be diverted to Decatur The result of the election gives Bluffton the line which is nearly completed between Union and Portland and will be entirely finished between Union and the point of junction with the Chicago and Erie at Markle by January 1 Rolling stock has already been ordered

The decapitating process still continues in railway circles and every day men are being let out presumably on account of the part they took in the late strike It is unofficially reported that five engineers and twelve firemen were dropped from the Pennsylvania's list of employes this morning Two of the engineers have been on the road for the past twenty years The Nickel Plate also discharged two of its old conductors yesterday The Wabash dropped all the strikers and [illegible] strike sympathizers in the st[illegible] the trouble and is now through or nearly so with the disagreeable task of discharging men Never in the history of strikes have the railways been so active in discharging men connected with the strike in the most remote manner as they are at present

People who travel said an old railroad man are prone to give credit for the safe running of trains especially at night to the engineer and conductor of the train on which they ride They see the value of the property and the number of lives which are placed in their charge and judge merely from that standpoint They do not think of the oftentimes tired men whom they see along the line in charge of freights who at almost every station along the road shift cars cut them out use all of the switches and tracks The engineer of the passenger train goes through many stations at the rate of fifty miles an hour and is compelled to trust to the care and thoughtfulness of the same men A slip on their part in the transaction of their duties would lead to a wreck and to them belongs a large share of the credit

[illegible] Aug [illegible]—It is expected that the [illegible] Columbus scale to secure which the national strike of coal miners was ordered recently and pretty generally obeyed will be nullified within the next week Operators Florscheim Boyle Bros and D M Anderson who operate mines on the Wheeling division of the Baltimore and Ohio yesterday told the miners officials that unless they could succeed in bringing out the men now working at the Pittsburg and Chicago Gas company's mines for sixty cents a ton that they would be adopted by them The Columbus scale calls for sixty nine cents To complicate the situation the striking miners of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company are threatening to return to work in a body This company pays fifty five cents a ton but operates no company stores and has conceded to be worth five cents a ton The prospect now is that notwithstanding the privation endured by many thousands of miners to secure better wages their condition within a week will be as bad or no worse than before the big strike for the price paid in the Pittsburg district govern more or less directly the wages paid to miners throughout the country

The Cherokees ceded [illegible] 6 000 000 acres to the government for $8 300 000 and still retain [illegible] 000 000 acres of the choicest land The remainder of the purchase price will be paid between now and 1900 It is estimated by the government [illegible] that Shawnees Delawares negroes and others [illegible] share of the money awarded the Cherokee Although the population of the Cherokee Nation is about [illegible] only 10 000 of the members are full blooded Indians The remaining [illegible] 000 are part Indian and part negro or part white

The Cherokees originally lived in Georgia, Alabama North and South Carolina and West Virginia and sold their first tract of land to Governor Nicholson of South Carolina in 17[illegible] The remaining possessions of the Indians gradually slipped from them until 1838 when they were deported at government expense to their present home in Indian Territory They were given 14 000 000 acres of land by President Martin Van Buren but part of their hunting grounds have since been given to [illegible] and to other Indians

C J Harris the present chief of the Cherokee Nation is a very stout man weighing about 260 pounds He also carries considerable gray matter under his hat and has handled the finances of his nation in a[illegible] manner He became chief in December 18[illegible] succeeding Chief Mayes As his appearance indicates he is anything but a full blooded Cherokee His father was a white man and his mother a half breed Cherokee He was born in 18[illegible] and came to the Cherokee Nation after the war Before his election to his present office he had been Chief Mayes' private secretary for four years and had served two months as treasurer of the nation when Chief Mayes went to the happy hunting grounds He also represented the Cherokees at Washington for several years as a sort of Indian [illegible] and minister plenipotentiary When the government turned over [illegible] 000 worth of bonds as part payment for the Cherokee strip he went to New York and sold the bonds for $6 [illegible] 000

FORT McHENRY'S CENTENNIAL

The Anniversary of Its Transfer to the Federal Government to be Celebrated

Gallant old Fort McHenry defender of Baltimore from British guns in 1814 and inspirer of our national air The Star Spangled Banner is to have an anniversary celebration on Sept 1[illegible] when the Baltimore Society of the War of 1812 will hold an appropriate exercise [illegible] the transfer of the fort to the United States [illegible] by the state of Maryland The fort was begun in the early days of the Revolution in anticipation of war between the colonies and Great Britain In 17[illegible] when another war with Great Britain seemed probable the fort was transferred from the state to the national government

In 1793 the people of Baltimore desiring a better defense for their harbor raised $20 000 and erected a formidable brick fort on the site of the old one on Whetstone point The new structure was called Fort McHenry in honor of James McHenry of Baltimore first secretary of war under President Washington The fort's great days were Sept 13 and 14 1814 The British had sacked Washington and were then endeavoring to capture Baltimore About midnight on the 13th a British fleet of 16 warships sailed up to within two miles of the fort and began bombarding it During the attack 1 500 shells fell upon the fort, but it was injured

very little and only four of its gallant defenders were killed and 24 wounded It was garrisoned by a small force of regulars under General Armistead and its guns were manned by volunteer artillerists under Judge Nicholson The guns which were 42 pounders were unable to reach the British ships two miles away but they effectually prevented the enemy from passing up the Patapsco to Baltimore Some of the British vessels attempted to get nearer the fort but received such a hot fire when they came within range that they hastily retired On Sept 15 the discomfited Britishers weighed anchor and sailed away

During the bombardment of Fort McHenry Francis Scott Key a young Washington lawyer was on board a cartel ship then with the British fleet endeavoring to procure the release of his friend Dr Beanes When morning dawned and Old Glory was still defiantly floating over Fort McHenry Key was so overjoyed that the words of The Star Spangled Banner formed in his patriotic mind The song was printed in Baltimore and at once became popular During the late war when Baltimore was so strongly in favor of secession Fort McHenry remained in the hands of the Federal government although Baltimoreans several times planned to attack it

Go With Us Around The World.

We offer to our subscribers the most beautiful art work ever published at a merely nominal cost This is an entirely new work, every plate being made especially for it. It is called

"FAMOUS PAINTINGS OF THE WORLD."

WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

It exemplifies the most ATTRACTIVE, INTERESTING, PURE and INSPIRING qualities of contemporaneous art It contains a superb introduction by the greatest living novelist, GEN LEW WALLACE

GEMS OF MODERN ART

Reproduced by the perfected half tone process, having the appearance of the most perfect photographs So large a collection of photographs of paintings could not be purchased for less than $1,000 and yet these photographic reproductions are offered to the public at the insignificant price of TEN CENTS for each portfolio

Every picture is described by the brightest and best of America's writers on art subjects These descriptions are not technical or prolix, but bright and interesting

The materials for this publication have been gathered out of the most Famous Galleries and finest Private Collections in the Old World and the New

All eminent artists are represented, but the minor artists and young aspirants for artistic honors—whose names are not yet household words have not been overlooked The Committee of Selection have often chosen a meritorious and pleasing picture by a comparatively unknown artist in preference to an unattractive subject by a painter of prominence This magnificent art work is in itself a

Home Gallery of Famous Masterpieces.

Do not fail to secure the first portfolio at once The first Portfolio contains sixteen reproductions of great paintings, and also the magnificent introduction by GENERAL LEW WALLACE

All the future portfolios will contain sixteen reproductions of MASTERPIECES OF MODERN ART.

To The Editor

Volume No 5 of Harper War Book just came, and it surprised me greatly to find the large colored map. Accept thanks for your promptness I thought the other parts couldn't be beat, but they seem to grow better. If others appreciate the value of what you are giving for only 10 cents, you must sell a host of them, for if anybody once sees these War Volumes they must be as much surprised as I have been at so much, and so good, for such a low price. You deserve a vote of thanks for what you are doing. The good done by placing this great Harper history of the civil war in reach of every man, woman and child cannot be calculated.

Yours very truly,
F. B. D.

The rain which visited this city this noon was not a general one, but its cooling effects spread over quite a territory. At Chicago it began raining last night and continued this morning. It did not rain either at Cleveland, Toledo, Indianapolis or Lafayette. Warsaw, Valparaiso, Angola, Defiance and Bluffton had only slight sprinkles. At New Haven it rained hard for twenty minutes and at Plymouth the rain came down hard for an hour. Auburn had a slight shower.

Tomorrow the counties of Cass, Howard and Carroll will hold an old settlers meeting at Delphi. The speakers upon the occasion will be Secretary of State Myers, of Indianapolis, and Enoch Cox, of this city. While not an old settler, Mr. Cox was a former resident of Carroll county and at one time editor of the Delphi Journal. He is an eloquent speaker and his old home seldom fails to do him honor upon occasions of this kind. Mr. Cox leaves for Delphi this evening.

The evangelistic meetings at the Berry street M. E. church, under the leadership of Peter Rijnbart, are constantly gaining in interest and numbers. The meeting of last night was exceedingly interesting, a great many requesting prayer for friends. The meeting this evening will be held at the usual hour, 7:30 o'clock, the first thirty minutes being spent in outdoor song service. Mr. Rijnhart's subject this evening will be "Answered Prayers" and his own conversion. Everybody cordially invited.

A HORRIBLE DEATH.

Mother and Babe Burned to Death Last Night.

SELMA, Ala., Aug. 10.—News has reached this city of the horrible death of Betty Simpkins and her babe, near Pine Tucky. The mother was awakened by flames. Half dazed she ran out but later thought of her baby and rushed into the burning building. She came out with her child in her arms and her clothing in flames, but fell, and without uttering a word, expired. The child lived an hour.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

May Have to Elect Two Sets of Trustees and Assessors.

Provisions of the Law Passed By the Last Legislature—What the Attorney General Thinks.

The last legislature on the 2d of March passed a bill changing the time of electing township officers from April to the general election in November, and every four years thereafter. It is maintained by attorneys who have given the subject some thought that by the change in the law there are created two terms for trustees and assessors—a short term and a long term. The trustees and assessors elected this fall will, under the provisions of the law, take office next August. It is maintained that the terms of the trustees and assessors now in office will expire ten days after the election in November, and that there is a vacancy between the date of the expiration of their terms and the date fixed on which the newly elected men shall take office. The proposition under consideration by the two committees is that there shall be nominated by both parties candidates for this short term.

Attorney General Smith has been asked to furnish an opinion on the subject, and it has been proposed that he be joined in the opinion by William A. Ketcham, the republican nominee for attorney general. Mr. Smith said that he did not believe there was any necessity for the election of men to fill in the time between this coming November and the following August. "I am willing to join with Mr. Ketcham in an opinion stating what the law is," said he, "but I do not propose to agree to any recommendation as to what the state committees shall order."

Mr. Smith says it seems to him that the trustees and assessors now in office can hold over until the second Tuesday in next August.

He can not see why the state committees should want to elect a set of short term officers unless it is that the party managers believe the nomination of two more sets of candidates will put more interest in the campaign.

TWO RIBS BROKEN.

Serious Accident to Nelson Stevens, of Wells Street.

He Slipped and Fell at Ehrman's Blacksmith Shop This Morning—Some Minor Casualties.

Nelson Stevens, of No. 132 Wells street, met with a serious accident at Ehrman's blacksmith shop on West Main street, this morning. Two ribs were broken and he was hurt internally. Mr. Nelson accidentally slipped and fell on his side. He was taken to his home. Dr. C. B. Stemen attended.

MINOR CASUALTIES.

Yesterday afternoon, on Charles street, the eight-year-old son of Charles Rosenberger was attacked by a vicious dog. The boy's cries drew the neighbors, who beat the animal off. Dr Miller was called and cauterized the boy's cheek, back of his right ear and a big tear in his arm.

Yesterday afternoon, while L. H. McAfee, of 3 Wells street, was hauling the main pipe for the South Wayne water works system, a heavy iron pipe fell on his foot, mashing it down at the instep and breaking several of the small bones of the member. The same accident disabled Henry A. Sauer. His hand was badly hurt. Dr. Miller attended.

Clark Weisner, of Force street, a young man of eight years, fell from a fence and sustained a broken arm. Dr. Miller reduced the fracture

H. G. McDole, of the Pennsylvania company's planing mill, was at work at a rip saw yesterday afternoon, when a large slab struck him in the face, cutting a bad gash and leaving a large number of splinters. Dr. Geo. C. Stemen attended the man at his home, No. 99 Summit street.

Fred Klinke, a carbuilder, fell from a car and struck his side upon a heavy timber. He was quite seriously injured.

Mrs. N. C. Green, of 40 East Butler street, mother of George Green and Mrs. Ed Erickson, fell and dislocated her right shoulder yesterday. Dr. Miller attended the sufferer.

Fastest Tires

ON EARTH.

It Makes Us Laugh Ha! Ha!

"THEY SAID"

That Single Tube Tires are fastest—but Bliss thought not—proved it by riding a World's record mile in 1:54 4-5—on double tube clincher "G & J. Tires."

That Double Tube Tires are slow—but Cooper and Berthel "nailed" that one by establishing new World's Road Records from 5 to 50 miles on double tube "G & J. Tires."

That Clincher Tires are heavy—and yet the new "G & J. Racing Tires" weigh only 1½ lbs. per pair.

That a Light Wheel must have wood rims and cemented tires—but Rambler makers have turned out 15½ lb. racers fitted with steel rims and clincher "G J. Tires." No tags. No glue. No wires.

That Steel Rims are not fast—and yet they hold the World's Records for one mile standing start, one mile flying start besides those splendid World's Road Records.

Pardon the Repetition, but how would you prove it otherwise?

G. & J. are the Fastest Tires on Earth.

POOR COREA!

Overridden by Two Hostile Armies,

While Her Own Citizens Are Starving.

Coreans Attack the Japanese Minister's Party.

Russia Getting Mixed Up in the Muss—She Seizes the Island of Getaubito.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 10.—The Pacific mail steamer, City of Pekin, arrived early this morning, fifteen days from Yokohama, bringing advices up to July 24. The Japanese papers give a large number of conflicting dispatches from Corea, but there is little news which has not been anticipated by the cable. Most of the information is from Japanese correspondents, who send improbable stories.

According to the dispatch, as brought by the Tokio Maru, which left Vladivstock on July 12, a portion of the army were preparing for Corea, while at the port there were seven men-of-war and one transport. Rumors are current among the foreigners there that Japan and China have already commenced hostilities, though the Japanese discredit them. The Russians are said to be advocating an alliance with Japan. At Gensan there are neither Japanese nor Chinese troops and none of the Chinese residents are making preparations to leave. Though there has been a great catch of beche-de-mer, there is no dealing whatever.

Japan Papers publish a telegram from Seoul, dated July 27, stating that the Japanese minister urged the Corean government to drive the Chinese soldiers from Asan by force, if it really wished to demonstrate that it was an independent state. If Corea does not drive the Chinese from its borders then it has deceived Japan in declaring itself an independent state. The Japanese minister pressed the peninsular government to abrogate the existing treaties between China and Corea. Everything is now in a very critical condition. The father of the present soverign is likely to ascede to a power again. A meeting of the Corean cabinet was held in the presence of the king and passed a resolution applying for the assistance of China. The following three proposals were made by the Japanese minister to the Corean government: To accept the advice of China; to abandon the dispatch of an ambassador to China annually and to drive the Chinese soldiers from Asan. Subsequently, under date of July 22, the Japanese minister in Seoul sent the following telegram to his government.

"The Corean government has refused to accept the proposals of the Japanese government, and it does not appear likely that it will reconsider the matter. It is unavoidably necessary to make fresh resolutions and thorough preparations have now been made." The Coreans requested the Japanese minister to withdraw the Japanese troops from the country and also the proposals made by the Japanese government to the Corean government on the ground that if Corea adopts Japan's proposals other powers will dispatch forces to the kingdom and make similar demands, thereby embarrassing as well as forcing the Corean government to do their bidding. Corea will make the various internal reforms only after the departure of the Japanese troops from Corea, who is undoubtedly instigated by China in this course.

The Japan Gazette of July 21 gives the following details of the skirmish near the palace at Seoul: Yesterday morning there was a skirmish between Japanese and Corean troops outside the royal palace at 3 a. m., and the Corean troops offering resistance, there was a fight for twenty minutes, after which the Coreans were dispersed and fifty of their arms fell into the Japan troops' hands. Another account says: To Mr Otari's second demand the Corean government returned an insolent reply, and the castles showed signs of great disturbance. The minister placed himself under escort of Japanese troops and was going to the royal palace, when the Corean troops fired at him. The Japanese troops responded and the fight was over in twenty minutes and the minister went to the palace.

Still another version is as follows: The Corean government, having given a most insolent reply to the minister's second demand, the minister saw the futility of any longer negotiating with the Corean officials and intended to go this morning to the palace and communicate directly with the king. Before this the king resolved to call to his aid his father-in-law, Tai-In Kun, and seek his counsel on the present lamentable condition of the country. On this being communicated to the king's father the latter hesitated, as he feared that the Bin family would, on hearing of this, prevent him by violence from going to the palace. The king was at length obliged to ask the Japanese minister for an escort of Japanese troops when Tai-In Kun should come to the palace. Mr. Otori sent an escort to Tai-In Kun, and at 3 o'clock Corean troops, under the Bin family's instructions, fired on the Japanese troops, who returned the fire. The fight ceased in about twenty minutes. Tai-In-Kun went back to the castle in safety with Mr Otori. They had an audience with the king, who backed the minister in connection with his demands and assured him that he had no intention of rejecting them. Tai-In-Kun was appointed the head of the government. He will remain at present in the palace. The Bin family, which is at the bottom of the present trouble through its selfish ambition, will lose its power, as Tai-In-Kun is known to be its enemy.

A Portuguese stopping at Kobe has been found to be a spy for the Chinese government and also negotiating for the purchase of coal. From Shanghai it is learned that the Kiang Lung powder mills are at work night and day. It is stated that they are turning out over 1,000 pounds of the explosive daily and the government is urging them to make as much as possible as war is expected. A Vladivstock telegram announces that preparations are being made for the dispatch to Corea of three regiments of infantry and a corps of engineers and seven war ships from Vladivstock, but it is not known whether they are for the protection of Russians in Corea.

At the meeting of foreign ministers on July 16, at Jinsen, the proposal to make Jinsen neutral in case of war was rejected. The Chinese resident, Yuen Sie Kai, was excluded from this meeting, as in the foreign ministers' opinion he had not the qualifications of an accredited minister.

The Kokumin correspondent comes to the following conclusion on the feelings of Coreans: The majority of the Coreans are satisfied with being independent of China. The Coreans believe that Japan and Corea cannot act in conjunction, but deny that Japan is friendly to Corea. They prefer being half or wholly dependent on another nation to being independent. The Takakuto are powerful enough to crush the central government unless the latter is assisted by foreign troops.

A Seoul telegram announces that a Russian flag is to be seen on the island of Getaubito. It is surmised that Russia has seized it. The queen of Corea, in concert with her relations, the Bin family, has appealed to the Russian minister for Russian protection in case of emergency and the minister has consented.

The Kokumin Shill Bun gives an elaborate argument to show that now is the best time for Japan to begin hostilities with China. The surplus revenue in the keeping of the treasury amounts to almost nine million yen, to which must be added another sum of five million yen accruing in the twenty-seventh fiscal year from the surplus for various expenditures. There is not any pressing urgency for the local disbursement of these sums. they may be utilized as a war fund, the two together representing fourteen million yen, all of which the government can employ by issuing a word of command. This however, would be sufficient to defray the army expenses for a short time only, so when the war actually begins some measure must be instituted by which the necessary outlay can be raised. According to the Kokumin the plan is to increase the note issuing power of the bank of Japan which it says may be increased from $5,000,000 to 120,000,000 yen without in the least affecting the national currency. With regard to the settlement of financial obligations incident to the war, says the Kokumin, it will be time enough to talk about that when Japan dictates terms of peace to her enemy.

The daily papers of Tokio are coming so frequently under the ban of suspension by the government, for the publication of Corean items, terrorist paragraphs, and the indulgence, real or imaginary, of official secrets that these journals have been obliged to arrange for an interchange of subscription lists during the alternate periods of the suppression of their publication.

A substantial improvement is to be noticed in the plague returns of Hong Kong. The coolies are flocking back to the place again, but trade will require a long time ere it revives. A strong shock of earthquake lasting three minutes and a half was experienced in Yokohama on the evening of the 23d inst. No damage was done

TWELVE KILLED.

Frightful Railroad Wreck in Nebraska.

A Passenger Train Goes Through a Trestle

And Carries Its Passengers Down to Death.

Trainwreckers Responsible for the Appalling Disaster—The Train Burns Up.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 10.—A fearful wreck, involving the loss of twelve or more lives, occurred on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad where it crosses on a high trestle the tracks of the union Pacific and Burlington and Missouri River roads at 10 o'clock last night. All the indications point to train wreckers as the cause.

Train No 8 is an accommodation called "Fort Worth accommodation" and is due to arrive here at 9:40 p. m. Last night it was about ten minutes late and was making up time when it struck the trestle that crosses Salt creek, about four miles from the city, and twenty-two miles from the penitentiary. When it struck the trestle the rails immediately spread and the engine, drawing two cars after it, went thumping along over the crossties for about fifty feet, and then with a crash it fell forty feet to the bed of the creek below.

The engine burst and glowing coals spreading ignited the wooden supports of the trestle and in a few moments the bridge, dry as tinder from its long exposure to the sun, was one mass of flames. The coals falling upon the coaches lying in the ditches, set them afire and five minutes after the first warning the entire mass of cars with their load of human freight below was a mass of flames.

It was an awful sight. The flames mounted high in the heavens, colored the entire southern sky a brilliant red and from below shrieks of agony and pain were heard to issue. Willing hands were there to help but little could be done.

The engine had fallen first, then the combination car or smoker and express coach fell, partially upon that and the rear coach falling behind it telescoped that car, thus pinioning those unfortunates who were in the smoker, so that it was impossible to save them or for them to escape.

Harry Foote, the brakeman who did such efficient work at the wreck, says he is positive that there were at least ten men in the smoker, six of whom he can describe. In addition to the crew he mentions a man whose name he does not know, employed by an elevator builder named Counselman, at Naraka, Kas. There were also several passengers who got on at Jansen and two who got on at Pawnee City. Foote says that when he took out Fred Scott, the baggagemaster, who was crying for help, he heard a groan from the smoker and again another when the rescuers reached it, but that was all. Probably all were mercifully crushed to death, for the car was smashed almost perfectly flat. One man was found lying outside the smoker. He was probably on the platform when the train went over. He was seriously but not fatally injured and is now at the Opelt house.

The passengers rescued from the chair car were paralyzed with fright and could only lie on the bank and moan, rendering no assistance to the work of the rescuers. One family of Russians, consisting of a man, wife and child, was so completely panic stricken that, like horses in a fire, they could not be induced to leave the car and they were burned. The wrecking crew so far has discovered only the few blackened bones and fragments of burned flesh. O. S. Bell, the Lincoln traveling man, was not killed, as at first reported, but terribly injured internally. He was taken to his home on North Sixteenth street.

Among the thirteen passengers in the chair car were Mrs. Fritz and sister-in-law, who were badly shaken and bruised. J. E. Fritz a Lincoln traveling man, had three ribs broken and is a mass of cuts, but it is thought he will recover. J. R. Brinker, a Denver traveling man, was supposed to have been killed but he turned up this morning, having missed the train at Beatrice. Col. C. S. Bills, treasurer of the National Guard association of the United States, was one of the fortunate passengers and his story is as follows.

"Jay McDowell and myself were seated in the middle of the car. As we discovered that the train was likely to go over the trestle McDowell started down the aisle. I called to him to sit down and the next instant the crash came. The engine went overboard first and the smoker on top of that and the second coach in which we were seated jammed down upon the other. The car was crowded with passengers who were forced upon the backs of seats in front of us, and all but McDowell and myself were horribly mangled. As soon as possible we climbed a window and in fifteen minutes succeeded in extricating nine persons who were jammed in the debris. Hearing the shrieks and cries for help on all sides I left McDowell and ran three miles across the country to the penitentiary without making a stop. I had Warden Bermer telephone the police department and they responded promptly and nobly with the patrol wagon, carriages and physicians."

It is believed that the total number of deaths will reach twelve. Those known to have been killed are as follows: C. D. Stannard, conductor, Council Bluffs, burned to death; William Craig, fireman, Fairbury, Neb., burned under engine; Isaac Depew, Council Bluffs, instantly killed; W. O. Hamble, Fairbury, Neb., attorney, burned to death; O. S. Bell, Lincoln, Neb., traveling man, crushed to death; Mr. Counselman, elevator builder, Naraka, Kas.

The injured are: F. F. Scott, Holton, Kas., express messenger, fatally injured internally; Col. C. J. Bills, Fairbury, Neb., treasurer of the National Guard association of the United States, leg badly cut, will recover; Jay McDowell, Fairbury, Neb., legs cut and head badly bruised; Harry Foote, Council Bluffs, brakeman, leg broken; J. E. Fuetz, traveling man, Lincoln, internal injuries; two ladies living in the Billings block, Lincoln, slightly injured; a messenger named Somerel, hurt about the head.

A number of people are missing, and it is feared that Unruh, mother and son, of Jansen, Kas., are among the dead. M. Beaver, a clothing merchant, and B. Eddie, an insurance agent, both of Pawnee City, cannot be found, and are supposed to have perished. An unknown man, said to have come from McPherson, Kas., on the way to the Black Hills, is supposed to be among the dead.

It is reported by Brakeman Foote, the only one of the train crew who escaped, that five traveling men and two farmers were in the car and were burned.

There is no question but that the disaster is the work of train wreckers. J. W. Glover, a section man, today said he saw the three well dressed men jump on a freight and go west. He said that the men each carried a long, brand new satchel. This gives rise to a suspicion that it may have been some of the Round Pound, Okla., enemies of the Rock Island. Marks made by a wrench on a loosened rail were plainly visible and the marks of a crowbar on the crossties were there. The wood of the ties was deeply dented where the crowbar had been inserted and the rails lifted clear off the ties, and the spikes which had been pulled out were lying around loose on the bridge.

C. H. Cherry, the injured mail clerk, was to have been married in a month. F. F. Scott, the baggagemaster, was the only unmarried man in the crew. He is a son of the Burlington surgeon at Horton, Kas.

The loss to the railroad company alone will amount to $40,000. How much money may have been lost through the mails and otherwise is not known.

Later reports give the following additional names of those killed:

Mr Munger, traveling man for Counselman, the grain dealer.

E. H. Yerneke, abstractor, Lincoln.

Henry Peters, blacksmith, Council Bluffs.

Colonel Bills says that two men in the front of the chair car were killed and burned and that he had hold of one trying to get him out but could not manage it. He thinks it would be impossible for a man to have escaped from the smoker. It fell headforemost on the engine and the chair car which followed flattened it. E. H. Zornke, of Lincoln, and Henry Peters, of Council Bluffs, are no doubt in the ruins. They were at Sprague yesterday and expected to return last night. The operator at Martell says that two Germans flagged the train.

THE DOG WAS MAD.

Officer Hines Kills a Canine with His Gun.

This morning Officer Hines was called to the residence of Charles A. Copp, 33½ Barr street, where he found the pug dog of Mr. Copp acting very strangely. It was said to be mad and was considered dangerous, and for this reason it was thought best to kill it. The officer consequently pulled his gun and killed the canine.

Detectives Will be Present.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.—Superintendent of Police Roger O'Mara has sent out circulars to the head police officials of fifteen of the largest cities in the United States, designating the detectives whom he would like to have here during the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic to assist the Pittsburg police. The men he has selected are among the best known in the country, and thieves will have a hard time of it in Pittsburg.

Had a Duel.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 10.—In a duel with pistols last evening Senor Jose Verastegui, chief of the government stamp department, was killed by Francisco Romero, a well known congressman. The duel was the result of a quarrel over a woman. On the first fire Verastegui fell with a ball through the heart and the body was taken to the policestation.

Nominated for Congress.

HOLDREGE, Neb., Aug. 10.—The republican congressional convention of the Fifth district early this morning nominated Prof. W. E. Andrews, of Hastings. He ran against Congressman McKeighan two years ago and was defeated.

CAN'T AGREE.

Democratic Tariff Conferees Hopelessly Divided.

This Was the Situation at Noon Today and the Prospects for a Favorable Turn Are Slim.

WASHINGTON, Aug 10.—The democratic conferees resumed their sitting today and during the beginning of the conference there was an interchange of suggestions, based upon the offer made by the senate conferees last evening to accept free sugar, as provided in the house bill, the senate bill on iron ore to be accepted by the house. It did not take the conferees long to figure that they could come to no agreement on this basis and the first house member to make his appearance said so. Within half an hour after the conference began the senate conferees left the room and met Senator Gorman, of the committee of appropriations. Other conservative senators were sent for and it was said that a point had been reached where a decision one way or another must be reached. One of the house conferees said that the tension was very great and the situation unsettled, but that there must be a break up soon, as the present condition of affairs could not last.

One of the republican conferees said just after 12 o'clock that the republicans had not yet been called in but said emphatically that a disagreement had been decided upon by the democrats.

2 P. M.—It is stated on the authority of a conservative senator that the republican conferees will be called in today and that the senators will make a proposition to report a disagreement on the tariff bill. If the house will not accept this, a resolution is to be presented in the senate recalling the senate conferees. "It will be lively in here today," said one of the democratic senators who had just conferred with those managing the senate end of the contest.

At 12.25 p. m. Senator Hill tried to obtain recognition to offer a resolution calling for information as to the status of the tariff conference, but was temporarily crowded out by business. While the resolution of Mr. Hill was lying on the table Senator Gray moved an executive session. Few senators voted on the viva voce vote and Hill demanded the yeas and nays. The democrats generally voted for the motion. Hill, Murphy, Pugh, Palmer and Gibson voted no. Gorman, Harris and Jones did not vote. Vest voted aye. The motion was lost—yeas, 31; nays, 32.

Senator Hill's resolution requested the senate conferees to report to the senate the principal items of disagreement in the tariff bill and as to whether an agreement was likely to be reached. Senator Harris stated that the main disagreement was on sugar, coal and iron ore. Objections were made to the consideration of the resolution as it lacked unanimous consent. Mr. Hill insisted that it was a proper matter for the consideration of the senate at this time. The vice president decided that under the rules the resolution must lie over for a day. Senator Vest said he was in favor of the resolution. "When it comes before the senate tomorrow," he said, "I shall take occasion to make a statement before the senate which can be done without violation of the confidence of the conference. It is time, I think, that the calcium light of the house be thrown on the conference, that the calumnies and false issues which have been heaped upon the conference and sent broadcast over the country be dispelled. With this view I will, when the resolution is considered tomorrow, speak of the infamous lies which have been involved in circulation as to the work of the conferees on the part of the senate."

Senator Hill suggested, "Perhaps the senator would like to free his mind now."

"I am ready at any time," declared Mr. Vest.

Mr. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, executed a flank movement by calling up a resolution here offered by Senator Allen. The resolution was unimportant but it gave Mr. Aldrich the floor and he claimed the Allen resolution was morning business. He moved to strike out all after the word resolved, and insert the resolution of Mr. Hill. Fierce opposition was made to the consideration of the resolution.

Mr. Aldrich said the opponents were "trying to filibuster it out of sight when the country wanted information." Mr. Mills objected that the amendment was not germane to the resolution, which was for the consideration of a bill for the issue of $50,000,000 of treasury notes, which led Mr. Hill to ask: "Is the amendment not as germane as it is for a senator to discuss the Chinese question in a tariff speech?" Mr. Mills insisted it would be a breach of the rights of the house for the senate to direct its conferees to return the bill. At 2 o'clock the resolution and everything pertaining to it went over until tomorrow under the rules and the senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business.

WAYNE CELEBRATION ENDED.

Bicyclists and Farmers Parade—Picnic in the Afternoon.

DEFIANCE, Ohio, Aug. 10.—The feature of the last day of the Wayne celebration was a wheelmen and farmers' parade. There were over five hundred bicyclists in line. The machines were nearly all decorated with buff and blue. The wheelmen were followed by 150 farmer's wagons loaded with farmers. The procession was headed by the Continental Guards of Fostoria and three companies of the Sixteenth regiment, I. N. G. The bicycle races took place yesterday afternoon. In the sixteen-mile road race there were ten starters. Calhoun, of Cleveland, won in a hot finish, with Hoffman, of Lima, and Harley, of this city, who finished in the order named—time, 55.21. Hoffman won one of the short races and Calhoun the others.

The farmers' picnic in the Falls Grove was largely attended in the afternoon. General Stevens and John Snook, democratic candidate for congress in this district, addressed the meeting. General Stevens made one of his characteristic speeches which pleased those present. Mr. Snook paid a glowing tribute to the memory of Wayne and congratulated the people of this city and surrounding territory on the success of the centennial celebration, the biggest thing in the history of the northwest territory.

A society to be known as the Order of Anthony Wayne has been formed with a large membership. This society will meet in the old fort grounds annually August 8 to perpetuate the memory of Wayne and to keep the historic spot in its present condition, if possible.

THE GIRL FOUND.

The Police Succeed in Locating Altie Karebier.

She is With Her Grandfather, Near the Reformed Orphans' Home—Police Court Notes.

Peter Foust, a well known resident of this city has informed the police that he has found Alice Karebier, the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Haller, whom the officers have been looking for during the past few days. Foust is the child's grandfather and lives near the Reformed orphan's home. He is an old soldier and says he will keep the girl at his home as she has been running wild.

SHOT AT BUMS.

Last night about 8 o'clock Sheriff Clausmeier and Officer Coling were called to North Barr street, where a lot of vagrants had congregated along the river bank. As soon as the hobos saw the officers they fled in all directions and were aided along by a number of shots fired into the air. One fellow was so badly frightened that he plunged into the river, floundered across and escaped down the Nickel Plate tracks.

ONCE PROSPEROUS.

Yesterday afternoon the patrol wagon was called to the house of J. K. McCracken, on West Wayne street, where a drunken man had fallen on the sidewalk in a stupor. The man gave his name as Peter William Thompson and was bordering on delerium tremens this morning. Some years ago he came to this city with considerable money and engaged in putting down sidewalks. He was fined $1 and costs and sent to jail.

Johnny Appleseed, a drunk, and Charles Day, a vagrant, were each sent to jail, the former for eleven days and the latter for six days.

SHORT CHANGE SHARPERS.

Yesterday afternoon a gang of sharpers tried to operate in this city but were run out promptly by the police. Two of them went into Nierman's drug store and ordered cigars, offering in payment a $20 bill. In making the change they attempted to befuddle Mr. Nierman in a number of ways, but were fired out of the store bodily. The same fellows tried to work Martin Lill, the saloonkeeper, but failed. When the gang found they were being hunted by the police they made themselves scarce.

A PIONEER LADY.

Mrs. Mary Niemann, One of Our Early Settlers, Dies.

Funeral of the Late Fred Eckart Very Largely Attended—Other Deaths and Funerals.

Last night at her home, 272 East Washington street, occurred the death of Mrs. Mary Nieman, one of the earliest pioneer residents of Fort Wayne. Mrs. Nieman was born in Germany in the year 1830, and when a child came to America, arriving in Fort Wayne when she was four years of age. She was married twice, John Horstman being her first husband, who died nearly thirty years ago. Theodore Nieman, her second husband, died July 16, 1892. He formerly conducted a grocery business on East Washington street. The deceased has occupied her present home at 272 East Washington street for a quarter of a century. There are nine children who survive her, all of whom live in this city: John and Henry Horstman and Miss Carolina Horstman, Bernard and John Nieman, Mrs. Michael Gotts, Mrs. John Nelson, and Misses Clara and Tracy Nieman. The deceased has been a sufferer from asthma, which caused her death. She was a member of St. Mary's Catholic church.

The funeral will be held on Monday morning from the church.

OTHER DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

The funeral of the late Fred Eckart was held at the residence, on East Wayne street, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The pall bearers were Messrs. J. D. Bond, F. C. Rurode, J. M. Kane, J. B. White, J. H. Bass, Jacob Klett and B. Eisenbauer, of Huntington. The funeral was largely attended.

RABBI HIRSCHBERG.

The Popular Young Hebrew Divine at Wheeling, W. Va.

He Delivers a Lecture at a Camp Meeting—Reception Given in His Honor.

Rev. Samuel Hirschberg, the scholarly and popular young rabbi of the Achduth Veshalom congregation of this city, has been at Wheeling, W. Va., attending the big camp meetings which have been in progress at the Moundsville camp grounds near that city, and the Daily Register, of that place, gives the following account of a lecture delivered by him and a reception given in his honor.

"Rev. Samuel Hirschberg, a prominent young Jewish rabbi from Fort Wayne, Ind., who has been a guest of relatives in Wheeling, visited his cousin, Mrs W. H. Frank, at the camp ground hotel yesterday. Last evening he delivered a lecture in the auditorium for the benefit of the Young People's Temple. His theme was, 'Men, Brothers All,' and he handled it in a masterful way, holding the undivided attention of his hearers for an hour and thirty minutes. He is an excellent speaker, eloquent at times, and always interesting. Through his efforts a neat sum was realized for the object for which the lecture was given.

"A reception in his honor was arranged by a number of ladies in the camp grounds. It took place in the parlors of the hotel, between the hours of two and five o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was a complete success. The parlors were tastefully decorated with flowers and plants, and presented a very pleasing appearance. Mrs. Frank was assisted in receiving by Mrs. P. B. Dobbins and Miss Helen Harrison. Mrs. John Shellhase rendered excellent piano music during the afternoon, and the program was varied by pleasing vocal selections.

"Nearly all the ladies and gentlemen on the camp grounds were present during the hours of the reception. The ladies of the receiving party wore strikingly handsome costumes, and some fetching gowns were noticed among the guests. The affair was the more enjoyable because informal."

HE COULDN'T SWIM.

Rev. Northrop Meets With a Mishap Up in Michigan.

While Out Fishing His Boat is Capsized and He Flounders Around in the Water for Half an Hour.

Rev. and Mrs S. A. Northrop are at Fenton, Mich., spending their summer vacation and while out fishing last Monday morning the popular Baptist pastor met with a mishap, an involuntary baptism in fact, which THE SENTINEL thinks is a "good one" to tell on the reverend gentleman. The Courier, of Fenton, in speaking of the mishap, says: "Rev. S. A. Northrop and M. Joslin were fishing Monday morning when their boat capsized. The reverend gentleman cannot swim, and it was only by the most energetic and persistent efforts that they regained possession of their overturned boat. They finally reached land in safety, but were greatly exhausted by their adventure."

They had just finished fishing and were about to start for home, when in pulling up a anchor which held the boat in place, the rope broke and threw both the occupants into the water. It must have been a sight to have seen Rev. Northrop floundering around in the water and unable to swim, but he is equal to any occasion, and "he pulled for the shore," although he was nearly half an hour reaching it.

The Tabernacle pastor may have some big fish stories to tell when he reaches home, but it will without doubt keep him busy for awhile explaining to his friends why he did not learn to swim when he was a boy.

THE BORTON BOYS

Will Go to Warsaw One Week From Next Tuesday.

There will be an annual reunion of the Borton boys at Lakeside park, Warsaw, on Tuesday, August 28, and it is designed to have present at that time all those who have been at the Plymouth institute, and there are hundreds of them throughout the state.

It will be a picnic occasion, embracing in its main features a basket dinner, refreshments, speeches, etc., and having for its main object the establishment of good-fellowship among the cured men and women.

On this account the Borton boys of this city have arranged to run a special train to Warsaw on that day. The fare for the round trip will be only $1, and everybody is invited to go with them. T. N. Roach, at the insurance office of Eversole, Roach & Slater, No. 12 West Wayne street, has charge of the affair, and all those who desire to help the Borton boys of this city along in their efforts to redeem men from the drink habit are urged to purchase a ticket of him.

BIG WINE SYNDICATE

Which Will Control the Wine Business of California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—The big wine syndicate which has been formed here to control the wine business of the state will control 80 per cent. of the grape product of California for the next five years. Its formation doubles the value of the crop, as the present price of grapes is $5 a ton, while the syndicate promises to pay not less than $10 a ton. Seven houses are in the syndicate and more will probably be admitted soon. The capital stock of the company is $10,000,000, of which $5,000,000 have been subscribed. The houses transfer all their assets to the syndicate, but each will preserve its identity, keeping its labels, trade marks and brands, while doing business as part of the syndicate. All of the business will be done under the supervision of the board of directors. One branch of the business will be to advance $2,500,000 annually to vineyardists for expenses in cultivating vines, gathering grapes and making wines. It is probable that later a central depot will be established for the storage of wines and brandies. The place of business of the syndicate is to be San Francisco, and the term of business fifty years. This move on the part of the wine men of California is expected to revive the languishing industry of the state and make wine growing profitable.

SMALL BOY KILLED.

Falls From the Overhead Bridge on Gay Street.

Albert Williard, Step Son of Albert Drewett, Meets a Shocking Death—His Mother Prostrated.

A sad accident befel a six year old lad named Albert Williard, yesterday afternoon about 4.30 o'clock, at the Gay street bridge, over the Pittsburg and Wabash railway tracks.

During the afternoon young Williard and a number of other small boys were playing about the crossing and on the bridge. This is a wooden structure guarded by a narrow railing, which at the highest point is about twenty-five feet from the ground. The boys dared each other to walk across on the railing and this feat young Williard accomplished successfully twice. The third time, however, he attempted to turn around at the very highest point. As a result he lost his balance and fell headlong to the tracks below, striking his head on either a rail or a tie.

The boy was fearfully crushed, the brains oozing from a shocking wound in the top and back part of his head. It was thought he was dead and the undertaker was called. The lad was only unconscious, however, although in a dying condition, and was taken to his home, No. 231 Harmer street, in the patrol wagon. Dr. Kesler was called, but pronounced the case hopeless, and at 8 o'clock the boy passed away.

The mother of the lad, Mrs. Drewett, has been quite ill and not able to be up, but yesterday, when she heard of the accident she rushed down to meet the patrol wagon and is now in a serious condition from nervous prostration.

The boy was a stepson of Albert Drewett, a well-known canvasser, who was a soldier and is prominent in Grand Army circles. Mr. Drewett's home is in Bluffton, though he is temporarily residing in this city.

Undertakers Kerlin & Bloom took charge of the body and Coroner Harrod held the inquest today, rendering a verdict in accordance with the facts.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from the residence.

DON'T LIKE THE CANDIDATE.

Elkhart County Republicans in a Dilemma.

GOSHEN, Ind., Aug. 10.—The Elkhart county republican central committee held a meeting in this city yesterday and engaged in secret discussion as to the best course to pursue to force their candidate for representative to withdraw from the ticket. The candidate, George W. Farral, secured the nomination as the result of a bitter factional fight between Elkhart and Goshen. His nomination was a great surprise to the party managers, who foresee his easy defeat, although the county is heavily republican. Heroic measures have been taken to induce him to voluntarily withdraw. This he declines to do and the bosses have decided to force him from the ticket. They find but one precedent on which to base their action, but have decided to risk it. In 1876 the republican state committee removed Godlove S. Orth from the head of the state ticket and substituted General Harrison's name.

ELECTRIC LINE ON ROADS.

Madison County Permits the Use of Its Turnpike.

ANDERSON, Ind., Aug. 10.—The Madison county commissioners last night granted a franchise to a company of Indiana capitalists for the construction of an electric railroad across the country, using as the line the sides of the county turnpike. The road is to be known as the Indiana Gas Belt Electric line, and is to run from Indianapolis to Marion, passing through Ingalls, Fortville, Pendleton, Anderson, Alexandria, Gas City and Jonesboro, a distance of seventy-five miles. According to the franchise granted work is to be commenced at once, and is to be pushed rapidly to completion, according to R. J. Clodfelter, of Crawfordsville, and V. C. Quick and A. N. Pointer, of Alexandria, who appeared in behalf of the company.

Work will be commenced near Alexandria at once and the line between Marion and Anderson will be in operation this fall. The Anderson-Indianapolis branch is to be completed in the early spring. The company is to be incorporated at once with a paid up capital stock of $200,000 and a bonded stock of $100,000. Capt. W. R. Myers, secretary of state, is one of the stockholders. The scheme is similar in route and detail to the Pennington bubble that burst last fall.

The natural gas ordinance will come up for consideration at the next meeting of the city council. The consumers in Fort Wayne should be given gas at reasonable rates.

Six weeks without rain! That is the record in this city. This, with the oppressive heat, was pretty hard for us mortals to bear, but the rain came to day and brought relief.

The duty of keeping bad books and bad newspapers from the hands of youth is obvious. Parents ought to scrupulously guard their homes against those dangerous newspapers which fill their columns with scandals and immoral sensations.

The report of the joint committee of the city council on the annexation of South Wayne is to be presented to the council at the meeting Tuesday night and will recommend that it be made a separate ward, to be known as the eleventh. If the project meets with no obstruction South Wayne will be a part of the city by September 1.

The question is often asked, "When is one most content?" We would say while you are at work with both mind and hands. Did you ever stop to think that you feel the heat more on Sundays than during the week days, even though the temperature be higher all week? This is one proof that people are most content while they are busy, and that they do not then have time or opportunity to notice such trifling things as appear very prominent when the mind and hands are unemployed.

It has been rumored in some quarters that at the coming democratic state convention at Indianapolis efforts would be made by the populists to bring about a fusion of their forces with the democrats. There will probably be nothing of this sort, unless the populists come in as democrats and subscribe to the principles of our platform. There are some features in the populist platform which are democratic enough, the declaration for tariff reform and the approval of an income tax. But between democratic principles and populist theories there is a very marked division, and any strength gained by fusion will be more than offset by the disaffection of those democrats who cannot endorse the wilder demands of the populists.

The supreme tent, Knights of the Maccabees, at Port Huron, Mich., has called a state convention for Indiana to meet at Fort Wayne September 4, to consider the question of forming a great camp in this state. If such a camp is formed Fort Wayne will enter the race for the state headquarters, and if successful in securing it, the permanent officers of the camp will be located in this city. The Knights of the Maccabees is a flourishing and growing institution, with members in every state of the Union, and the location of the state headquarters in this city would be advantageous to Fort Wayne. THE SENTINEL hopes that the Knights of the Maccabees here will put forth their best efforts to secure the state headquarters for this city. With our central business location and excellent railroad facilities, no better city in the state could be selected.

Our Centennial Anniversary.

The board of county commissioners, acting upon the advice of their attorney, have refused to give the amount asked by the committee for the celebration of the centennial of the building of the old fort in this city. This they did because they were advised that the voting of such an appropriation by them would be illegal, and not because they were not heartily in favor of an appropriate celebration of the centennial, for in talking with the commissioners THE SENTINEL learns that each one of them will do all they possibly can, personally, to advance the arrangements for a proper observance by the city and county of the event.

On account of this action of the commissioners, the local centennial committee will tender back to the city council their offer of $[illegible] which had been voted them and resign their positions as members of the committee. An effort will then be made, so Capt. Allen Dougall tells THE SENTINEL, to raise the money for the celebration by private [illegible], and this he believes [illegible].

The citizens of Defiance raised $4,0[illegible] for their centennial celebration and the citizens of Hamilton, Ohio, contributed $[illegible] for a like purpose in their city. Both of these places have a population of less than [illegible] inhabitants, and if their citizens can contribute in this manner, surely Fort Wayne, with her [illegible] population can raise a like sum.

Captain Dougall believes that Fort Wayne's centennial will be celebrated, although the celebration may not be on the scale originally intended. Surely our citizens ought not to allow this event to go without doing it honor and THE SENTINEL does not believe that they will. Let the centennial be celebrated and our business men and citizens generally will help it along.

Features in Tomorrow's Sentinel.

The readers of THE SENTINEL are so well acquainted with the value of the reading matter in the Saturday's edition of THE SENTINEL that it is, perhaps, unnecessary for us to call attention to it. It is the paper of the week and is always the favorite in the home circle, because it contains a number of articles on special themes, written by well known authors and full of interest and information. Besides being a newspaper, giving all the local and telegraphic news of the day, it is a literary volume, replete with excellent reading matter on a variety of subjects and possessing the merit of being "up with the times."

Tomorrow's SENTINEL will contain a letter from Washington, written by our special correspondent at the national capital on "the big and little things that congress has done." It tells of much of the important work that congress has done during the present session, not in detail, but by picking out special features and commenting upon the work of the committees. The letter gives the reader an insight into congressional work, and it will well pay an attentive perusal.

It seems to be generally conceded that, so far as mere members go, the government of the Celestial empire can count on many more fighting men than can that of the land of the chrysanthemum in the war that seems now to have really been begun over the Hermit Kingdom, as Korea is often termed. On the other hand, it is claimed that the Japanese soldiers are better drilled and better equipped than are the Chinese, and better fighters to boot, and that by reason of these things Japan has an excellent chance of winning. This question of the fighting forces of these two empires will be taken up in tomorrow's SENTINEL and discussed by a writer who is qualified to give a great deal of valuable information on the subject.

Fourteen surviving members of the whaler James Allen, which was shipwrecked in Behring sea a few months ago, recently arrived in San Francisco and related tales of hardships and suffering such as seldom fall to the lot of men, even of those who brave the dangers of the deep and the rigors of the frozen north. The harrowing experience of this whaling crew will be told in an article which we will use in tomorrow's issue.

People who like to read stories about haunted houses and ghosts will be suited with an article entitled, "The Monk Came Back," in tomorrow's SENTINEL. It is a strange story of a visit to a haunted house in London made by members of the society for physical research. The ghosts were there sure enough and thoroughly frightened the physical researchers with their uncanny manifestations. The article is illustrated and three columns in length.

Bill Nye and M. Quad with their humor will be on hand tomorrow and with other articles which we have not space to mention, tomorrow's SENTINEL will be an interesting issue.

In Line With American Thought.

The movement in the Catholic church to advance temperance and abstinence indicates a shaking off of foreign impressions. The apparent laxity of the Catholic church towards the liquor traffic was an importation which came in with the foreign immigration with that spirit which changed the character of Sunday observance in this country. In Germany, France or Italy, after the services of Sunday morning the worshipers spent the rest of the day in a garden and indulging in gayety and drinking beer and wine. The priest might also follow and look at them without reproach. Such a people and priest transplanted to America could not be expected to adopt the ultra-American views of the Sabbath or drinking. The influx of foreigners impressed some of their customs upon this country, and the climate and high pressure of life here turned many a foreign-born citizen from beer and wine to spirits. None learned more quickly than the foreigner the opportunities in our political system for the liquor seller, and the chances it gave him to protect his business. Undoubtedly before our population became so largely foreign the American standards of temperance and Sunday observance were higher than those prevailing in Continental Europe, or in Great Britain and northern Europe.

As a transplanted plant will grow with greater luxuriance in a new soil, habits and customs which had been harmless, or comparatively so, in Europe, branched out into excesses in America. As Satolli said there are evils connected with the liquor traffic that are peculiar to this country, and unknown in Europe.

Both in its attitude towards temperance and education, the Catholic church is more American and less influenced by European ideas than it once was. We do not understand that it is advocating prohibition, but the curbing into restraint and decency a traffic which should not be master where its right to be a servant is not conceded. The later movements in the Catholic church shows a desire to be in line with the best aspirations of American life and thought. The German priest, of an humble flock, may watch his people go to the Sunday garden or evening music hall without reproach, but the American priest knows that will not do for Americans. He is no longer a foreigner, but an American. His people are the equals, socially and politically, of their fellows and he wants them to be equals as moral and spiritual forces.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

[illegible] COSTUMES SEEM TO BE THE ORDER OF THE DAY

[illegible] Gowns Seen at the [illegible] Races. White and Black [illegible] Garments.

made of navy [illegible] serge, plainly hemmed about the bottom and having a pointed band around the waist, simulating a girdle. The waist is of striped goods in the form of a shirt, and over this is an Eton jacket of the blue, with wide sailor collar and cuffs of stripe. The upper portion of the sleeve is large and full. A cord, ending with round silk balls, tied at the bust, makes a pretty [illegible]. In this dress we have the [illegible] sleeve, and the kilt and draped overskirt of 15 years ago, and the Eton, which is quite a modern invention in woman's attire, but one destined to always remain popular. It is more becoming [illegible] than the more Spanish jacket styles. The kilted skirt is a boon to many ladies who do not look well in the severity of an undraped skirt.

For children there is much of the same [illegible] of the best features of the different salient styles. The Gabrielle dress is [illegible], also a modified Mother Hubbard as well as more of the quaint little Greenaways. The 1830 modes are also to be found for little girls. I remember one made of flax colored wool delaine. There was a very short yoke, to which the whole dress was plaited, the seams under the arms only being good slightly. The [illegible] were held in to the waist line and then left to fall loosely. Around the neck was a [illegible] ruffle, and there was a white bertha, full on the shoulders and brought down to a point in front, where there was a rosette of ribbon to match. From beneath this two ends of ribbon were carried around the waist and tied in the back in long loops. There was a printed band of brown and white around the bottom and on the bertha and sleeves. This is woven on the dress material to serve as trimming. The large [illegible] sleeves and the waist trimming give this simple lace extremely pretty gown its distinction. It would be a good model to follow in any goods not to be laundered.

I saw another dress for a little girl that I thought very dainty. It was of fine wool challie in cream ground, with sprays of goldenrod in its palest shade scattered over it. Around the straight hem was a band of watered ribbon of the exact shade of the frosty green leaves of the goldenrod. The waist had a shirred yoke, the rest of the fullness being gathered in the belt, which was of hunter's green velvet. I should have said that the yoke was of the velvet in the upper part, and so was the collar. There was a plaited ruffle of the moire ribbon above the velvet collar. The sleeves were bishop, with deep velvet cuffs, edged with plaited ribbon, and having besides a fall of white lace. Nothing could be prettier than this cool and dainty little frock.

Some new and bewitching gowns and hats are being shown now at the races at Saratoga and elsewhere, which are said to be exact counterparts of those seen at the famous Grand Prix of Paris. Among them I singled out two for special mention. One was of ivory white china silk, the skirt having three flounces, one overlapping the other, and each having a row of white lace insertion set over a band of pale lilac ribbon. The French waist is nearly covered with perpendicular bands of insertion over the ribbon, and the enormous sleeves are draped and puffed with many bows of lilac satin ribbon. A white silk parasol has five deep ruffles of chiffon, embroidered lightly with lilac silk, and has a large bunch of lilac [illegible] ribbon tied to the top and another one on the handle. The hat is a flat sailor shape, with [illegible] puffs all around the crown and with two stiff bows made of tulle, with lace and ribbon, in the middle, the whole [illegible] by a tulle veil, which crosses in the back and ties in the front in a large [illegible] bow. Purple silk mitts complete this exquisite toilet, one of [illegible].

The other costume was of hunter's green [illegible]. The skirt was gored and had [illegible] plaits of hunter's green velvet let in, each [illegible] having a velvet bow and rhinestone buckle. There was a cutaway jacket, [illegible] shaped in the back, and having a full vest front of cream white china silk, [illegible] full of the same [illegible] turndown collar. [illegible] ors in a waist, while none of them shows in the skirt. Great ruffs of chiffon and silk muslin will be—in fact, are beginning to be—worn by those who are able to have the first of every new thing.

I must not omit to mention that bengaline in white and ivory tints will be very much worn for handsome reception and evening costumes. When these are for [illegible] gowns, the combinations will be of velvet, plush or some other rich silk, such as brocade or [illegible], with lace or a fluffy and perhaps a band of ostrich plume down the fronts. For dinner or evening wear they will be trimmed heavily with silver or pearl beaded gimps, fringes and passementeries.

I saw one neat white bengaline evening dress for a lady now at Newport. It was en princesse and with a pompadour neck. There was a corselet of fine black beaded jet [illegible] in very openwork pattern, and that reached below the hips and ended in a superb jet fringe, each strand ending in a slender jet plaque. Around the bottom of the skirt, which was trained quite long, there was a series of palm leaves worked in fine jet, the lower edges forming scallops. Under these there was a very full knife plaiting of pale maize satin. The sleeves reached to the elbows only and there ended with a rich jet fringe. The corselet of jet reached clear around the waist, the jet fringe hanging much lower in the back than the front. The whole skirt was lined with some very stiff [illegible] and had altogether a regal appearance.

There was one other magnificent gown of bengaline which I must mention. This was made with a gored skirt and demitrain. There was an applique of black Spanish lace all around the skirt half a yard deep, from which all the mesh had been clipped, leaving only the heavy figure. This was sewed to the bengaline, and here and there a fine cut jet bead was added. The figure was turned upward. A narrow row of beaded gimp encircled the skirt, set just on the edge. Under the edge of the skirt were four knife edge plaitings, which would show only as the wearer might move. The waist was cut pompadour and with deep points front and back, which were furnished with eyelets and black silk cord, and laced up around the square neck was a large bertha ruffle of black lace over white silk. The sleeves were extremely large puffs of white and silver brocade, with a fall of Spanish lace at the elbows, where they ended. This fall of lace was narrow on the upper part of the arm and wide at the back. To go with this gown there was an enormous fan of black lace over white satin. There was a silver chain and a clasp made of silver, set with rhinestones, which is intended to fasten on the waist.

MATE LEROY.

A Summer Resort Tyro.

The youth in white flannel suit, russet shoes, albumen pink shirt and pancake hat was doing his first time at a summer resort hotel, and he had as his companion something very similar in his makeup, but of three or four seasons' experience at summer resorts. In a burst of confidence after the first week of it the new fellow called the veteran aside.

"I say, Tom," he said, blushing much and whispering low, "if I tell you something, will you keep dead still about it?"

"Sure. What is it?" and the blase youth was almost interested.

"Sure you won't say anything?"

"Of course. I swear. Now, what is the great secret?"

"Well, old fellow," this with many blushes and much hesitancy, "I'm engaged."

"No. You don't say so!" and the veteran smiled.

"Yes, I'm engaged," he nodded cheerily.

"To how many?"

"How many?" gasped the new one. "One, of course. How many did you think, pray?"

The veteran pulled himself together.

"That's so," he said. "Excuse me. I forgot that you were only an amateur."—Detroit Free Press.

Orders Aplenty.

Two [illegible] met [illegible] at the corner of Second and Jefferson streets yesterday morning. The face of neither wore the [illegible] that would betoken [illegible] happiness. Each man carried in his hand one of those small, square satchels with a black look, [illegible] always [illegible]. While waiting for a car this conversation passed:

First Agent—Well, Harry, did you get any orders today?

Second Agent—Not an order, Will. I never saw people so crabbed in my life. How did you do? Did you get any orders?

form state laws, expression and classification of the law, and federal code and criminal procedure will make their reports. At this session the association will again discuss the great question of uniform divorce laws.

President Cooley was born in Attica, N. Y., in 1824. He studied law and was admitted to the bar of Michigan in 1845. In 1857 he was elected compiler of the state laws and the following year became reporter of the supreme court. He organized the law department of the University of Michigan in 1859 and in 1864 was appointed justice of the supreme court of Michigan and three years later was made chief justice. In 1885 he sought re-election, but was defeated.

When the interstate commerce commission was organized, Judge Cooley's great reputation as a jurist impelled President Cleveland to appoint him a member of the commission, and his associates elected him chairman. Ill health compelled him to resign in 1891. Judge Cooley is a very unsentimental looking man, but he eloped with the girl who became his wife. Young law students who appear backward in their struggles with Blackstone, Kent and Parsons may find a grain of hope in the fact that after young Cooley had been holding down a chair in a law office for a year the attorney he was studying with told him solemnly that he would never make a lawyer if he studied law 50 years.

TO TEACH CHINESE GIRLS.

Miss Ella Montgomery's Mission Will Keep Her Ten Years In the Celestial Empire.

To minister to the spiritual and physical needs of the young girls of China is the mission Miss Etta Montgomery has chosen, and she will leave for the other side of the globe to carry out her philanthropic plans as soon as the warcloud that now overhangs China and Japan shall have passed away. Her work will be done on the island of Hainan, just off the coast of China, and if health and life are spared her she will remain at her post for 10 years. The field is a new one, and in her work Miss Montgomery will be assisted by a trained native woman. The Chinese are by no means total strangers to her, for the reason that as a member of the Revere band she has accomplished much good in the Chinese quarter in New York city.

When she reaches her island station, a boarding school for girls will be established, and there will also be a day school. The work done will be chiefly along educational lines, but Miss Montgomery has taken a year's course of training with the International Medical

Missionary society in New York and is consequently well prepared to look after the physical as well as spiritual well being of her little almond eyed charges.

Miss Montgomery was born in New York city, but has passed the most of her life in the west. For several years she was principal of one of the largest schools in Topeka and was state financial secretary of the Young Women's Christian association. Her work in China will be done under the auspices of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions.

From seven to ten years is the usual time that a missionary remains at his or her post, and none of them feels like returning before that time unless ordered by a physician.

Of Interest to Mothers.

The success of Mrs. Annie M. Beam, of McKeesport, Pennsylvania, in the treatment of diarrhoea in her children will undoubtedly be of interest to many mothers. She says: "I spent several weeks in Johnstown, Pa., after the great flood, on account of my husband being employed there. We had several children with us, two of whom took the diarrhoea very badly. I got some of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy from Rev. Mr. Chapman. It cured both of them. I knew of several other cases where it was equally successful. I think it cannot be excelled and cheerfully recommend it." 25c and 50c bottles for sale by druggists.

When a Woman Has Constant Backache

she cannot walk or stand, her duties are heavy burdens, and she is utterly miserable.

The cause is some derangement of the uterus or womb. Backache is the sure symptom. For years Sarah Holstein, who lives at 7 Perry St., in Lowell, Mass., suffered with falling of the womb. The best doctors failed to relieve her, and as a last resort she purchased six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now she is a well woman.

The dreadful pain in her back stopped after taking the second bottle. She wishes she had taken it sooner, and saved both money and years of suffering. This Vegetable Compound is the one unfailing remedy for female complaints.

PULLMAN IN TOWN.

Passed Through Here this Morning on the Limited.

A Southern Pacific Official Talks on the Strike Question—Engine Men Discharged.

One of the passengers on the Pennsylvania limited this morning was George M. Pullman, who was enroute to his home in Chicago. Another occupant of the private car which carried Mr. Pullman was Robert T. Lincoln, ex-minister to England. This is Mr. Pullman's first visit to the scene of the origin of the great railway strike since last June.

WILL BLACKLIST THE MEN.

The San Francisco Examiner says General Superintendent Filmore, of the Southern Pacific, was asked today whether the company is preventing members of the American Railway union, who engaged in the strike, from getting employment of any kind. Mr. Filmore said:

"We have no use for men who engaged in the late strike and will not encourage them in any way."

"Suppose those strikers should obtain other employment, would your company go out of its way to have them discharged?" was asked.

"Yes," answered Mr. Filmore. "If I know that a man was not true to his company and if I find out that he has got a job anywhere, I will pursue him and use my best efforts to get him discharged. These fellows who killed our engines, destroyed our property and murdered our employes shall never earn bread and butter in California if I can help it. Against those men who did not take any active part in the strike I have nothing to say. I have no bitter feelings against them, for we do not consider that they were altogether to blame, but for those who lead the strikers, we have no such consideration. I have no use for fellows of that kind and do not intend that they shall make a living as long as they are within my reach."

MINOR MENTION.

D. H. Moyers, of the Wabash shops, is on the sick list.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois is pushing the work of removing its shops from Brazil.

Frank Bailey and Frank Binkley, of the electric light works, are up the St. Joe river today.

William Burning, of the east end, will go to Toledo tonight to visit his uncle, who is a steamboat engineer.

Machinist W. S. Wells, of the Pittsburg shops, is off duty today, looking for the dog that killed his chickens.

Class O engine 224 and switch engine 189 were turned out of the Pittsburg shops yesterday after thorough repairs.

The Toledo, St. Louis and Kansas City in July earned $142,699, a decrease as compared with July, 1893, of $20,777.

John Dick, a finisher at the Organ factory, and Miss Mary Kleinrichert, of 17 Wall street, will be married on the 30th inst.

F. W. Hilgeman, of the Wabash shops, had a piece of steel removed from his eye by Dr. M. F. Porter this morning.

Ben Pettit, of the draughting room of the electric light works, is celebrating the twenty-first anniversary of his birth today.

Switch engine No. 29, which was damaged in an accident at Lima, Ohio, a few days ago, was taken into the shops in this city for repairs today.

The Big Four Indianapolis division Wednesday turned over to the Lake Shore at Cleveland four trains of Niagara Falls excursionists, carrying 1,552 people.

E. B. Kunkle, the successful inventor and pop safety valve manufacturer, has just received a patent on a new pop safety valve, and also a muffler attachment for same.

The first seven months of this year the Pennsylvania road handled 6,507,895 tons of coal, which was a decrease, as compared with the same period of 1893, of 2,251,109 tons.

George Graham, painter in the Pittsburg shops, and his family left on No. 4 this morning for Nevada, Ohio, where they will visit Mr. Graham's brother, and then go to Crestline to visit other relatives.

It is stated officially that the Indianapolis & Vincennes road in July came within a few dollars of earning as much as in July, 1893. This is one division of the Pennsylvania system which did not suffer from the strike.

Peter Junk, of the Pittsburg planing mills, and Miss Julia Smith, of Johns street, will be married next Thursday morning. The ceremony will be performed at St. Peter's church and will be witnessed by a large number of friends.

The grain and other freight business on the Wabash is so rushing that engine and train crews are being kept on the road day and night. All locomotives that can be spared from the passenger service are employed in the freight traffic.

The Pullman company has prepared and printed a pamphlet of about twenty-five pages, in which is set forth the history of the big strike and its bearings upon the company. The book consists of clippings from the newspapers of the entire country in regard to the strike.

The third ball game between the Pennsylvania shopmen at this place and those of Allegheny will take place at Crestline tomorrow. Our boys will leave for that city on No. 8 tonight. The game was to take place in September, but for some reason it was thought best to have it earlier.

The Ferris wheel will be moved east from Chicago over the Lake Shore. The axle, which weighs seventy tons, will be shipped on the same car which carried the big Krupp cannon, and it will require five trains of thirty cars each to convey to its destination all of the material of which the great wheel was composed.

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good" is an adage which is verified in the following clipping from the Elkhart Truth: "D. L. Spencer, the operator at Dunlaps, who was dismissed on account of a wreck at that place some months ago, is now foreman of a painter's gang at Brooklyn, N. Y., at a salary of $4 per day.

It is reported that a number of the ex-employes of the Grand Trunk, who failed to get their positions back when the strike ended, will go to South America to work on some of the new railway lines now being pushed across the continent. Good wages and free transportation as far as Santiago, Chili, are some of the inducements offered.

All rails now manufactured by the Scranton steel mills when coming off of the converter are 150 feet in length, and after turned out are cut any desired length. A number of roads are now using, as an experiment, a rail one hundred feet in length and overcome the objection of using a long rail by having track layers place them in position instead of increasing the section force to the number of men required to handle them.

Western roads will soon be asked to lower their rates on through lake and rail business via Chicago in order that the lake lines from Chicago can meet competition via Toledo. At present, rates from Mississippi river points to the seaboard, via Toledo, are two cents lower than via Chicago. A committee of the Lake Line Agents' association has been appointed to confer with Chairman Midgely, of the Western Freight association, on the matter.

The Delaware and Hudson Canal road for a long series of years has not failed to pay a 7 per cent. dividend on its stock, which is $30,000,000. It has a light bonded debt, which is being rapidly cut down, every dollar being taken up as it matures, and after paying its last dividend the company had a surplus or dividend fund of $7,221,515.82 besides $1,057,635.01 advanced royalties on coal. The company is interested in twenty-nine of the larger of the coal mines on its lines of road.

All the Pittsburg conductors and flagmen have been instructed to keep a close watch for fire along the line of the road and if any is discovered to report the same to the first section gang they meet. Blank cards have been furnished the trainmen and when they have a fire to report they fill out the blank space stating the place and hour at which fire was discovered and throw the card off the train to the section men. The latter will at once mount their hand car and proceed to the scene of the fire.

Harrison township, Wells county, Tuesday, by a vote of 573 to 551, authorized the appropriation of $38,050 in aid of the Cincinnati, Union City and Chicago railroad. This aid was voted last year, but owing to some informality in the proceedings the county commissioners declined to levy the tax in the township and the road, now in process of construction, was to be diverted to Decatur. [illegible] the line, when it is [illegible] completed between [illegible] and Portland [illegible] will be entirely [illegible] with the Chicago end [illegible] Marion, by [illegible] rolling stock has already been ordered.

The decapitating process [illegible] railway employes [illegible] every day [illegible] presumably on account of the part they took in the late strike. It is unofficially reported that five engineers and twelve firemen were dropped from the Pennsylvania's list of employes this morning. Two of the engineers have been on the road for the past twenty years. The Nickel Plate also discharged two of its old conductors yesterday. The Wabash dropped all the strikers and prominent strike sympathizers at the start of the trouble and is now through, or nearly so, with the disagreeable task of discharging men. Never in the history of strikes have the roads yet been so active in discharging men connected with the strike in the most remote manner as they are at present.

"People who travel," said an old railroad man, "are prone to give credit for the safe running of trains, especially at night, to the engineer and conductor of the train on which they ride. They see the value of the property and the number of lives which are placed in their charge, and judge merely from that standpoint. They do not think of the oftentimes tired men whom they see along the line in charge of freights, who at almost every station along the road shift cars, cut them out, use all of the switches and tracks. The engineer of the passenger train goes through many stations at the rate of fifty miles an hour and is compelled to trust to the care and thoughtfulness of the same men. A slip on their part in the transaction of their duties would lead to a wreck and to them belongs a large share of the credit."

Mr. Thomas Batte, editor of the Graphic, Texarkana, Arkansas, has found what he believes to be the best remedy in existence for the flux. His experience is well worth remembering. He says: "Last summer I had a very severe attack of flux. I tried almost every known remedy, none giving relief. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended to me. I purchased a bottle and received almost immediate relief. I continued to use the medicine and was entirely cured. I take pleasure in recommending this remedy to any person suffering with such a disease, as in my opinion it is the best medicine in existence." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

MORE TROUBLE COMING

Coal Barons Threaten to Reduce Wages

And Notify the Columbus Scale Unless the Miners Succeed in Getting Out the Pittsburg Men.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 10.—It is expected that the effect of the Columbus scale, to [illegible] which the national strike of coal miners was [illegible] recently and pretty generally obeyed, will be null before the next week. Operators Flowerschein, Joseph Rose and D. M. Anderson, who operate mines on the Wheeling division of the Baltimore and Ohio yesterday, notified the miners' officials that if they could not bring out the men now working at the Pittsburg and Chicago gas companies' mines for sixty cents a ton they would be adopted by them. The Columbus scale calls for sixty-nine cents. To complicate the situation the striking miners of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company are threatening to return to work in a body. This company pays sixty-five cents a ton, but operates no company stores and this is conceded to be worth five cents a ton. The prospect now is that, notwithstanding the privation endured by many thousands of miners to secure better wages, their condition within a week will be as bad, if not worse, than before the big strike, for the price paid in the Pittsburg district governs more or less directly the wages paid to miners throughout the country.

Are the Prices of Cereals at Chicago.

Corn Prices Ran Around Quite Lively, But the Change is Less Marked Than Yesterday.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—September corn opened ⅛c lower at 55⅞c, advanced to 56⅛c, reacted to the opening price, rallied to outside figures again and eased off to 56⅛c. May opened ⅛c off at 54¼c, eased off to 53⅞c, rallied to 54⅛c, broke on realizing sales to 53⅞c, rose to 54¼c but fell away again to 53⅞c. Wheat showed a more independent tendency and was not so closely sympathetic with corn as it has been for the past week. Liverpool was a half penny higher and the market here responded readily to buying orders. September opened unchanged to half a cent higher at 56⅞@57c, sold off to 56⅛c, and rallied to 56⅝@56¾c. Oats still followed corn, selling at 32½@32⅞c, against 32⅞c at yesterday's close. Provisions were firm and slightly higher, short ribs showing the most activity and strength, with an advance of 5 cents.

Fort Wayne People as Talked About in Other Cities.

The Peru Sentinel says: "Miss Hannah Pierce, one of the attendants of feeble minded children, near Fort Wayne, came down last Friday for a visit with old Peru friends."

The Huntington Herald says: "Mrs. Thomas Kintz went to Fort Wayne on the noon train today to visit a few days with her sister."

The Kendallville News says: "Dr. W. W. Anderson leaves today for Fort Wayne, where he has accepted a position in a sanitarium."

The Warsaw Times says: "Miss Eva Lauferty, of Fort Wayne, after spending a pleasant visit of a few weeks' duration in this city, returned home yesterday."

The Huntington Democrat says: "Ed. Eisenhauer went to Fort Wayne this morning, in response to a telegram received last evening from Henry Eckert, informing him of the sudden death of Fred Eckert, the meat merchant, of that place, whose death occurred Wednesday."

The Plymouth Democrat says: "George Stewart, of Fort Wayne, visited for a few days here with relatives. —Mrs. Trimble, of Fort Wayne, has been visiting for the past week with her mother, Mrs. C. O. Smith, who has been quite ill."

The Anderson Herald says: "Dr. Younge, the well known specialist of Fort Wayne, was here yesterday. He is not the same light hearted, loquacious doctor that he was on his last visit to Anderson. Some days ago his bright six year old son died of dyphtheria. He was his father's idol and the lines of a gnawing grief were indelibly stamped on his countenance and his bearing."

The Churubusco Truth says: "Amos H. Walters and little daughter, of Fort Wayne, were visiting with friends here a portion of this week.—Rev. G. N. Eldridge, of Fort Wayne, will give a prohibition speech in this place next Friday night, August 17. CHIEF HARRIS [illegible] gold.

The Cherokees ceded [illegible] acres to the government for $8,[illegible] and still retain 5,000,000 acres of the [illegible] land. The [illegible] of the [illegible] paid between now and [illegible] purchase price will be [illegible] and 1895. It is estimated by the government [illegible] Delawares, negroes and others who lay claim for a [illegible] of the money [illegible] of the Cherokee Nation is about [illegible] only 20 per cent of the [illegible] are full blooded Indians. The remainder are part Indian and part negro or part white.

The Cherokees originally lived in Georgia, Alabama, North and South Carolina and West Virginia and sold their first tract of land to Governor Nicholson of South Carolina in 1721. The remaining southern possessions of the Indians gradually slipped from them until 1835, when they were deported at government expense to their present home in Indian Territory. They were given 14,000,000 acres of land by President Martin Van Buren, but part of their hunting grounds have since been given to Kansas and to other Indians.

C. J. Harris, the present chief of the Cherokee Nation, is a very stout man, weighing about 250 pounds. He also carries considerable gray matter under his hat and has handled the finances of his nation in an able manner. He became chief in December, 1891, succeeding Chief Mayes. As his appearance indicates, he is anything but a full blooded Cherokee. His father was a white man and his mother a half breed Cherokee. He was born in 1853 and came to the Cherokee Nation after the war. Before his election to his present office he had been Chief Mayes' private secretary for four years and had served two months as treasurer of the nation when Chief Mayes went to the happy hunting grounds. He also represented the Cherokees at Washington for several years as a sort of Indian envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary. When the government turned over to him [illegible] worth of bonds as part payment for the Cherokee strip, he visited New York and sold the bonds for $6,640,000.

FORT M'HENRY'S CENTENNIAL.

The Anniversary of Its Transfer to the Federal Government to Be Celebrated.

Gallant old Fort McHenry, defender of Baltimore from British guns in 1814 and inspirer of our national air, "The Star Spangled Banner," is to have an anniversary celebration on Sept. 12, when the Baltimore Society of the War of 1812 will hold appropriate exercises in honor of the transfer of the fort to the United States government by the state of Maryland. The fort was begun in the early days of the Revolution in anticipation of war between the colonies and Great Britain. In 1793, when another war with Great Britain seemed probable, the fort was transferred from the state to the national government.

In 1799 the people of Baltimore, desiring a better defense for their harbor, raised $20,000 and erected a formidable brick fort on the site of the old one on Whetstone point. The new structure was called Fort McHenry in honor of James McHenry of Baltimore, first secretary of war under President Washington. The fort's great days were Sept. 13 and 14, 1814. The British had sacked Washington and were then endeavoring to capture Baltimore. About midnight on the 13th a British fleet of 16 warships sailed up to within two miles of the fort and began bombarding it. During the attack 1,500 shells fell upon the fort, but it was injured very little, and only four of its gallant defenders were killed and 24 wounded. It was garrisoned by a small force of regulars under General Armistead, and its guns were manned by volunteer artillerists under Judge Nicholson. The guns, which were 42 pounders, were unable to reach the British ships, two miles away, but they effectually prevented the enemy from passing up the Patapsco to Baltimore. Some of the British vessels attempted to get nearer the fort, but received such a hot fire when they came within range that they hastily retired. On Sept. 15 the discomfited Britishers weighed anchor and sailed away.

FORT M'HENRY.

During the bombardment of Fort McHenry Francis Scott Key, a young Washington lawyer, was on board a cartel ship, then with the British fleet, endeavoring to procure the release of his friend, Dr. Beanes. When morning dawned and Old Glory was still defiantly floating over Fort McHenry, Key was so overjoyed that the words of "The Star Spangled Banner" formed in his patriotic mind. The song was printed in Baltimore and at once became popular. During the late war, when Baltimore was strongly in favor of secession, Fort McHenry remained in the hands of the Federal government, although Baltimoreans several times planned to attack it.

Go With Us Around The World.

We offer to our subscribers the most beautiful art work ever published at a merely nominal cost. This is an entirely new work, every plate being made especially for it. It is called

"FAMOUS PAINTINGS OF THE WORLD."

WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

It exemplifies the most ATTRACTIVE, INTERESTING, PURE and INSPIRING qualities of contemporaneous art. It contains a superb introduction by the greatest living novelist, GEN. LEW. WALLACE.

GEMS OF MODERN ART

Reproduced by the perfected half-tone process, having the appearance of the most perfect photographs. So large a collection of photographs of paintings could not be purchased for less than $1,000, and yet these photographic reproductions are offered to the public at the insignificant price of TEN CENTS for each portfolio.

Every picture is described by the brightest and best of America's writers on art subjects. These descriptions are not technical or pedantic, but bright and interesting.

The materials for this publication have been gathered out of the most Famous Galleries and finest Private Collections in the Old World and the New.

All eminent artists are represented, but the minor artists and young aspirants for artistic honors—whose names are not yet household words—have not been overlooked. The Committee of Selection have often chosen a meritorious and pleasing picture by a comparatively unknown artist in preference to an unattractive subject by a painter of prominence. This magnificent art work is in itself a Home Gallery of Famous Masterpieces.

Do not fail to secure the first portfolio at once. The first Portfolio contains sixteen reproductions of great paintings, and also the magnificent introduction by GENERAL LEW WALLACE.

All the future portfolios will contain sixteen reproductions of MASTERPIECES OF MODERN ART.

To The Editor:

Volume No. 5 of Harper War Book just came, and it surprised me greatly to find the large colored map. Accept thanks for your promptness. I thought the other parts couldn't be beat, but they seem to grow better. If others appreciate the value of what you are giving for only 10 cents, you must sell a host of them, for if anybody once sees these War Volumes they must be as much surprised as I have been at so much, and so good, for such a low price. You deserve a vote of thanks for what you are doing. The good done by placing this great Harper history of the civil war in reach of every man, woman and child cannot be calculated.

Yours very truly,

A HORRIBLE DEATH.

Mother and Babe Burned to Death Last Night.

SELMA, Ala., Aug. 10.—News has reached this city of the horrible death of Betty Simpkins and her babe, near Pine Tucky. The mother was awakened by flames. Half dazed she ran out but later thought of her baby and rushed into the burning building. She came out with her child in her arms and her clothing in flames, but fell, and without uttering a word, expired. The child lived an hour.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

May Have to Elect Two Sets of Trustees and Assessors.

Provisions of the Law Passed By the Last Legislature—What the Attorney General Thinks.

The last legislature on the 21 of March passed a bill changing the time of electing township officers from April to the general election in November, and every four years thereafter. It is maintained by attorneys who have given the subject some thought that by the change in the law there are created two terms for trustees and assessors—a short term and a long term. The trustees and assessors elected this fall will, under the provisions of the law, take office next August. It is maintained that the terms of the trustees and assessors now in office will expire ten days after the election in November, and that there is a vacancy between the date of the expiration of their terms and the date fixed on which the newly elected men shall take office. The proposition under consideration by the two committees is that there shall be nominated by both parties candidates for this short term.

Attorney General Smith has been asked to furnish an opinion on the subject, and it has been proposed that he be joined in the opinion by William A. Ketcham, the republican nominee for attorney general. Mr. Smith said that he did not believe there was any necessity for the election of men to fill in the time between this coming November and the following August. "I am willing to join with Mr. Ketcham in an opinion stating what the law is," said he, "but I do not propose to agree to any recommendation as to what the state committees shall order."

Mr. Smith says it seems to him that the trustees and assessors now in office can hold over until the second Tuesday in next August.

He can not see why the state committees should want to elect a set of short term officers unless it is that the party managers believe the nomination of two more sets of candidates will put more interest in the campaign.

TWO RIBS BROKEN.

Serious Accident to Nelson Stevens, of Wells Street.

He Slipped and Fell at Ehrman's Blacksmith Shop This Morning—Some Minor Casualties.

Nelson Stevens, of No. 132 Wells street, met with a serious accident at Ehrman's blacksmith shop on West Main street, this morning. Two ribs were broken and he was hurt internally. Mr. Nelson accidentally slipped and fell on his side. He was taken to his home. Dr. C. B. Stemen attended.

MINOR CASUALTIES.

Yesterday afternoon, on Charles street, the eight year-old son of Charles Rosenberger was attacked by a vicious dog. The boy's cries drew the neighbors, who beat the animal off. Dr Miller was called and cauterized the boy's cheek, back of his right ear and a big tear in his arm.

Yesterday afternoon, while I. H. McAfee, of 3 Wells street, was hauling the main pipe for the South Wayne water works system, a heavy iron pipe fell on his foot, mashing it down at the instep and breaking several of the small bones of the member. The same accident disabled Henry A. Sauer. His hand was badly hurt. Dr. Miller attended.

Clark Weisner, of Force street, a young man of eight years, fell from a fence and sustained a broken arm. Dr. Miller reduced the fracture.

H. G. McDole, of the Pennsylvania company's planing mill, was at work at a rip saw yesterday afternoon, when a large slab struck him in the face, cutting a bad gash and leaving a large number of splinters. Dr. Geo. C. Stemen attended the man at his home, No 99 Summit street.

Fred Klinke, a carbuilder, fell from a car and struck his side upon a heavy timber. He was quite seriously injured.

Mrs. N. C. Green, of 40 East Butler street, mother of George Green and Mrs Ed Erickson, fell and dislocated her right shoulder yesterday. Dr. Miller attended the sufferer.

Fastest Tires

ON EARTH.

It Makes Us Laugh Ha! Ha!

"THEY SAID"

That Single Tube Tires are fastest—but Bliss thought not—proved it by riding a World's record mile in 1:51 4-5—on double tube "G & J Tires."

That Double Tube Tires are slow—but Cooper and Berthet "smiled" that one by establishing new World's Road Records from 5 to 50 miles on double tube "G & J Tires."

That Clincher Tires are heavy—and yet the new "G & J. Racing Tires" weigh only 17 lbs. per pair.

That a Light Wheel must have wood rims and cemented tires—but Rambler makers have turned out 17 lb. racers with steel rims and clincher "G & J Tires." No tape. No glue. No wires.

That Steel Rims are not fast—and yet they hold the World's Records for one mile standing start, one mile flying start, [illegible] those splendid World's Road Records.

Pardon the Repetition, but how would you prove it otherwise?

G. & J. are the Fastest Tires on Earth.
